THIS is written in California, after a day spent rushing through real estate, in a fast blue Chevrolet, driven by William Packer, sales manager for Los Angeles. Next stop will be at San Francisco, travelling on Paul Shoup's "Lark," the fast Southern Pacific night train.

MR. PACKER says "don't go by train. Let me drive you to San Francisco in this car and I'll guarantee to beat the 'Lark' by three hours.

When conservatism decides not to make the 500 and odd miles in nine hours of night riding, in the Chevrolet Blue Bird, Mr. Packer says, "All right, I'll take you to the train and leave you there and meet you at the San Francisco station tomorrow morning."

If you don't want to buy another car, keep away from William Packer of Los Angeles.

MR. AND MRS. COOLIDGE celebrated yesterday the twenty-second anniversary of their wedding, with all the people's good wishes. This land means opportunity. Twenty-three years ago he was a young lawyer, she a very young school teacher. Now he is President of the United States, and but for four words, "I do not choose," would remain in the White House four years from March 4th, 1929, making a ten-year term in all.

President Coolidge looks 22 years older than he did 22 years ago. Mrs. Coolidge looks not one year older, as many friends of her girlhood will testify.

CALIFORNIA, every American should come here in his "see America first" program, surprises you, always in different ways, whether you cross from the Atlantic to the Pacific for the first time, or like this writer, for the one hundredth time.

A good housewife would be interested in these two signs:

"Fat hens 22 cents a pound."

"Three dozen large fresh eggs 77 cents."

The housekeepers' husbands would want to know that King C. Gillette, who makes razors and blades, has bought the northeast corner of Sixth and Olive streets, Los Angeles, for one million four hundred and seventy thousand dollars. Somebody else bought it about ten years ago for three hundred thousand dollars. Gillette got just as good a bargain as the other buyer did.

J. L. STACK, who knows how to live, shooting ducks and wild geese on the edge of the Pacific, at the same time growing richer and richer from his business in Chicago, says, "Tell young men that this is the time to move West. You walk over a bridge after others have crossed, then you know it is safe.

"In old New York days when Vanderbilts were making their few dozen millions, and when Russell Sage his fifty millions, people thought, 'these times can't last.' Now Sage and Vanderbilts are interesting beginners. The Rockefellers, Bakers, Mellons, are beginning to show how money can be made.

"Men coming out here with energy, ambition and enough money for a start will, in the next generation, show the East how to build real fortunes."

CALIFORNIA real estate, stretching a thousand miles along the Pacific, is assessed at seven thousand five hundred million dollars, on a 50 per cent basis. The nominal value is over fifteen billions. But oil now under California ground is worth more than fifteen billion. The soil in the wonderful Sacramento Valley, north of San Francisco, and the Imperial Valley, south of Los Angeles, and other California valleys and uplands is worth many times fifteen billions.

AMERICANS have no more idea about the real value of their country than the Indians had when they owned it.

Spaniards, who turned California over to the Mexicans about a hundred years ago, and Mexicans that turned it over to us, will muse sadly reading these figures. But neither Spain nor Mexico would have created the California of today, or produced William Packer, a salesman whose motto is not "Manana," but "Sign here."

WITH the Pacific ocean pounding and grinding in front of you, an ocean in which the United States would be only a good sized island, with California boosters booming all around you, it is hard to realize that other parts of the world really matter.

GERMANS, at this moment, are flying the Atlantic ocean westward, "making the trip uphill," as FORBES FIELD, Oct. 6.—Vic Aldridge, Pirate righthander, opposed George Pipgras, Yankee righthander, in the second battle of the 1927 world series here this afternoon.

Ideal weather conditions brought out another capacity turnout of 42,000 fans.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

NEW YORK—Combs up. On the first ball pitched, Combs flied to Barnhart.

Koenig up—Ball one, outside. Koenig singled over second on the second pitch.

Ruth up—Strike one, called. Ball one, inside. Strike two, swung. Strike three. Ruth fanned. The crowd was in an uproar.

Gehrig up—Strike one, inside. Ball one, outside. Ball two, inside. Ball three, high. Ball four, Gehrig walked.

Meusel up—Ball one, high. Ball two; it looked good. Strike one, called; curve ball. Strike two, swung. Aldridge threw out Meusel. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Lloyd Waner up—Ball one, high. Strike one, called fast ball. Foul along third base line, strike two. Lloyd Waner tripled to left.

Barnhart up—Strike one, foul past first. Strike two, called, curved ball. Foul behind catcher, strike two. Barnhart flied to Ruth, scoring Lloyd Waner on the sacrifice. Ruth went almost to the stands for the catch and made a fine throw home. But Lloyd Waner sprinted over 10 feet ahead of the ball.

Paul Waner up—Strike one, swung. A hot smash that almost knocked Donie Bush over. Strike two, swung. Ball one, high. Ball two, inside. Foul along third base stands, strike two. Foul along third base line, strike two. Ball three, high. Foul behind catcher, strike two. Foul along third base line, strike two. P. Waner was called out on strikes. It was a fast ball over the plate knee high.

Wright up—Strike one, foul behind catcher. Ball one, high. Wright flied to Ruth.

One run. One hit.

SECOND INNING

NEW YORK—Lazzeri scratched a hit off Aldridge's glove. Dugan and Bengough fouled out to Gooch. Pipgras lined to Grantham. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Pipgrass threw out Traynor. Grantham singled to center. Harris grounded to Gehrig. Grantham going to second. Gooch fouled to Bengough. One hit.

THIRD INNING

NEW YORK—Combs singled to right. Koenig singled over second, and when L. Waner fumbled the ball, Combs scored, Koenig going to third. Ruth flied to L. Waner, scoring Koenig. Gehrig doubled to right. Meusel beat out a hit to Wright, Gehrig taking third. Lazzeri flied to P. Waner, scoring Gehrig. Meusel taking second on the throw to the plate. Dugan flied to P. Waner. Three runs. Four hits. One error.

PITTSBURGH—Aldridge lined to Lazerri. Lazerri threw out Lloyd Waner. Barnhart singled over second. Paul Waner flied to Meusel. One hit.

FOURTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Bengouh lined to L. Waner. Pipgras fanned. Combs fanned.

PITTSBURGH—Wright flied to Combs. Traynor doubled to left center. Grantham fouled to Dugan. Harris flied to Ruth.

FIFTH INNING

NEW YORK—Koenig flied to P. Waner. Ruth walked. Gehrig flied to L. Waner, Ruth taking second. Meusel struck out.

PITTSBURGH—Pipgras threw out Gooch. Aldridge fouled to Bengough. L. Waner flied to Combs.

BUNTS

FORBES FIELD, Oct. 6.—Babe Ruth, who did not have a single strike called on him yesterday, struck out on four pitched balls in the first inning today. The crowd gave Aldridge a big hand.

Vic refused to give Gehrig a good one to hit and Lou grabbed the palm as the most-walked man now in the series.

LITTLE SPROUT WANER TOOK TEMPORARY POSSESSION OF THE EXTRA-BASE HIT THRONE BY TRIPLING TO LEFT IN THE FIRST. HE GOT A DOUBLE YESTERDAY.

Lloyd flashed some real speed as he scored from third on Barnhart's fly to right. He beat Ruth's perfect throw by ten feet.

Paul Waner continued to keep pace with Ruth by fanning in his first trip to the plate. He hit five fouls before he was retired.

The high commissioner of baseball, slouch hat and silvery locks, was up in the air this morning. Accompanied by Lieut. G. P. Tortellot, Army pilot, Judge K. M. Landis took off from Bettis Field, sped toward Pittsburgh and viewed Forbes Field from an altitude of several thousand feet. Then the plane circled and the view of the judge was from a point much nearer the ground. He passed over the Schenley district and declared he was well satisfied with the situation when the plane returned to the landing field.

Gooch made two putouts in the second inning, catching fouls from the bats of Dugan and Bengough.

COMBS AND MEUSEL GOT THEIR FIRST HITS OF THE SERIES IN THE THIRD WHEN THE YANKS CONCENTRATED THEIR ATTACK FOR THREE RUNS. THE THREE-RUN DRIVE MATCHED THEIR THIRD INNING EFFORT OF YESTERDAY.

RED CROSS JUNIORS PUT WREATHS UPON TOMBS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Junior delegates to the seventh annual Red Cross convention yesterday laid wreaths upon the tomb of George Washington at Mt. Vernon and the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

Two Yank Players Robbed

Waite Hoyt and Joe Dugan, of the New York Yankees' baseball team, were not as happy today as they might have been in view of their winning the first game of the world series, for yesterday evening, during their absence from their room at the new Hotel Roosevelt, sneak thieves, according to a report, entered and rifled their possessions, getting away with $400.

AND ENOUGH TO WIN ON

This Lady Shocked At Game

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Once upon a time, dear public a lady with horn-rimmed spectacles, eyebrows far above her hat, an aesthetic soul and a Bostonian accent, went to see the opening of a world series.

Now deah peepul, a plain ball game is no place for a lady with such a layout of handicaps. Let alone a World Series. And so the lady certainly went through a lot before the game wended its way to a disappointing close.

Particularly getting through the crowd. Her experience was exactly like ours. So take her word for it. She sat behind us and opined:

Oh! Deah! Deah! It took me an hour and 15 minutes to get from down near the Sun-Tele building out here. The taxis were like flies. People! People! People. And such a conglomeration of sizes, color, shapes and nationalities."

No fooling! The lady was indeed

41,000 SHARE BUC OPTIMISM

By JAMES J. LONG.

FORBES FIELD, Oct. 6.—Whether the Yankees would be out in front by two full games or the world series would be a deadlock before the evening was the burning question upon which more than 41,000 fans were speculating at Forbes Field this afternoon as the time drew near for the clang of the gong that would send the warriors of Donie Bush and Miller Huggins into action for the second time in the big stakes.

Among the players themselves, speculation was equally strong, and though confidence was strong on both sides, the Pirates appeared particularly optimistic. Bush's men looked like a different club from that of yesterday when they made ready for hostilities this afternoon.

Appearances are sometimes deceptive in baseball, as in anything else, and the fans realized it might happen that the Bucs would not play any better ball than in the first encounter. Nevertheless, as far as surface signs could be depended upon the Corsairs gave every promise of making a much improved showing. They seemed determined to atone for their mistakes of yesterday and to make up for ground lost in the first game by taking the measure of the American Leaguers this afternoon.

YANKS NOT INVINCIBLE

The ordinary ball played by the Yankees yesterday was largely the cause of the Buccaneers' confidence. They contend that such ball as the

PIRATES FIRST TO SCORE

By HARVEY BOYLE.

FORBES FIELD, Oct. 6.—The New York Yankees went out in front of the Pirates in the third inning of today's game when they nicked Vic Aldridge for four hits, which, coupled with an error by Lloyd Waner on a ground ball, allowed the Yanks to score three runs.

Vic Aldridge, Pirate righthander, worked behind a one-run lead gained for him in the Pirates' first, until the third, when the Yanks unloosed an attack that put them ahead, 3 to 1.

Aldridge was opposed on the mound by George Pipgras.

Combs started the Yankee third with a single to right. Koenig followed with a single to Lloyd Waner's territory in center. The ball rolled through Lloyd and Coombs scored as Koenig took third.

Babe Ruth, who had fanned the first time he faced Aldridge, this time sent a sacrifice fly to Lloyd Waner, Koenig scoring after the catch.

Gehrig's double to right, Meusel's infield single, and a sacrifice fly by Lazzeri to Paul Waner allowed Gehrig to score the third Yankee run.

The Pirates started the game auspiciously when Lloyd Waner smacked a triple down the left field foul line. He scored a moment later on Barnhart's sacrifice fly to Ruth.

Aldridge showed signs of recovering after his bad spell when in the Yankee fourth he forced Bengough to fly out to Lloyd Waner and then struck out Pipgras and Coombs.

Another capacity crowd was on hand to cheer the Pirates on. After today's game, second of the world series, the series will be resumed tomorrow in New York.

A midsummer-like sun this afternoon peeled the coats of bleacherites and fans in the covered sections as the game started.

One game in arrears, the Pirates were depending on Victor Aldridge, raven haired school master pitcher of the Corsairs, to thrust the Yankees back to even terms. The Yankees sent George Pipgras to the mound to dent the Pirates' hopes.

Tony Lazzeri, voluble and fiery second sacker of the Yankees, turned up with an injured hand. The Italian, who came up to the big leagues from the far-away Coast League, was hurt yesterday.

In batting practice Babe Ruth cracked a liner to right field which in turn cracked an innocent bystander on the dome. The ball bounded 50 feet in the air, and the Bambino and others feared the innocent bystander would go down for a long count, but fortunately the stricken man was strong enough to walk off the field.

While Aldridge and Pipgras warmed up Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, baseball comedians, burlesqued a tennis match, Schacht impersonating the famed Suzzane Lenglen.

The crowd stood at attention while a band played the national anthem, and after the American flag was unfurled the second game got under way. The official starting time was 1:35 p. m.

The second game started just as the first game had started, with Coombs flying out to Barnhart in left field.

The crowd got its first hearty shout of the series when Babe Ruth struck out in the first inning. With the count two and one the mighty Bambino swung at the next one—a low ball—and missed. It was the first time in the series that Ruth had succumbed by the strikeout route. Ruth had conquered both Kremer and Miljus, but Aldridge mastered the Bambino the first time Vic faced the big slugger.

Aldridge worried the fans a little by following the strikeout performance by walking Gehrig, but there were handclaps and shouts when Meusel grounded out, Aldridge to Harris.

The crowd was curious to know about an earnest conference between Manager Donie Bush and Umpire Quigley, stationed at third. Bush talked and pointed more than a minute with the arbiter.

Lloyd Waner smacked a triple to the left field line to open the Pirate first. The ball flew into left field, beyond the sight of Umpire Quigley. Quigley chased out into left field, where he slipped and fell. He had great trouble in getting back to third to make the decision as Waner slid in. Bush, on the coaching line, waved frantically to the oncoming Waner to "slide, slide."

Barnhart's long sacrifice fly was captured by Ruth, who made a long throw home, but the speedy Waner scored standing up. This was the first time in the series that the Pirates got out in front. Bengough, Yanks' catcher, claimed Paul Waner struck at a ball, which would have been the third strike, but Umpire Nallin, as usual, declined to be swayed.

Paul Waner met the same fate as his illustrious co-star of the series, Ruth, when, in the Pirate first, Waner was a strikeout victim. Waner didn't swing at the third one and was called out. It was a fast one right through the middle.

On top of the Carnegie Institute, beyond the left field wall, a group of youths and girls stood and stole a look at the game. They were about as close to the ball game as were the 35 boys at the recent unpleasantness in Chicago between

BLEACHER CROWD GATHERS AT FORBES FIELD ENTRANCE FOR SECOND GAME

CROWDS IN LINE BRAVE COLD

Scarcely less numerous than the cohorts that besieged Forbes Field for many weary hours before the opening of the gates for the world series yesterday, another array of fans camped before the portals last night. Dawn found 1,000 in line, and their numbers were steadily augmented. In the throng Wednesday were many who sought to see the game because it was "the thing to do," and they had become infected with the mob spirit. But those who stood in line last night were almost exclusively genuine, dyed-in-the-wool lovers of baseball, students of the game, the kind that can rattle off the batting average of the leading players without a moment's hesitation and tell how the clubs stood at the close of the season a dozen years ago.

IN LINE TWO NIGHTS

Warmed by a friendly sun, the crowd had no need this morning of the bonfires with which they tried to dispel the chill and fog yesterday. They were more weary and sedate, for not a few had been up both nights. There was James B. Conners, 23, of North Beattie, Wash., for example. He had driven an automobile all the way across the continent to see the series, making the trip in 10 days and arriving here Tuesday. He has not been away from Forbes Field since, nor had his clothes off. Conners saw the game yesterday and soon after it was over took his stand in front of the gate of admission to the $1.20 bleacher seats. At that he was fourth in line, being preceded by S. J. Kerekes, 21, of 319 Renovo street, a truck driver; Ralph Cherner, 17, of 1303 Iowa street, Schenley High School student, and Thomas Fitzgerald, 18, of 3246 Ward street, who were first, second and third, respectively.

FANS NOT SUBDUED

Notwithstanding that they were tired, the fans were not subdued. They found many occasions for merriment. Glee filled them when an early morning horseman cantered by for a ride in Schenley Park. As the equestrian passed down the line he had to run the gauntlet of cheers, laughter and cynical sallies.

Policeman Patrick J. Fiezgerald, who had been on duty all night, complimented the crowd on its good behavior. There was no disorderly conduct, and while a few persons had obviously been drinking, but they were offensive, but only funny.

Two men from Maine were loud in their praises of the officer. They were H. A. Moss, a retired business man, and John Tarr, town treasurer of Anson, a village on the Kennebec River. Moss, who is familiarly known to his fellow-townsmen as "Uncle Herb," has accumulated enough money to make him independent, and is devoting his life to amusing himself, especially by attending baseball games. When he and his friend Tarr got in from Maine yesterday they had scant hope of being able to see the game, but Fitzgerald found places for them in the line, and they got good seats. They were well to the fore in the straggling line this morning.

The first woman in the line was Miss Ruth Hord of Mt. Pleasant, Tenn., who drove to Pittsburgh for the series with her brother, William Hord. They were unable to get into the first game and were determined to see the second. Miss Hord had not been standing long before Policeman Fitzgerald gallantly brought her an upturned bushel basket on which to sit. Sir Walter Raleigh did not throw his cloak over the mud puddle for Queen Elizabeth more courteously than the burly officer spread a newspaper over the basket for the young woman from Tennessee.

New Yorkers displayed could not beat any good club at this time.

They attributed New York's victory yesterday to their own mistakes rather than to any superiority on the side of the Huggins clan and there wasn't a man in the Pittsburgh roster who did not feel confident that at the end of the second game the Freebooters would be on even terms with their opponents. The Bucs were more than ordinarily hopeful. Vic Aldridge warmed up well and seemed to have all of his usual stuff. The Yanks will never hit that curve ball, said the Pirates.

On the New York side, the Yanks seemed to have equal confidence in their pitcher of the day in spite of the fact that George Pipgras, Huggins' selection for the afternoon, is what might be called a first-year man. He has been sent out twice for development, but is now rated by Huggins as one of the best pitchers in the big leagues.

CONDITIONS IDEAL

The weather for this series is in pleasing contrast to that which prevailed in Pittsburgh's last world series in 1925. Conditions again today were ideal. Summer weather prevailing and the bright sunshine enabled the capacity crowds of approximately 42,000 to enjoy the diamond proceedings in comfort, whereas two years ago rain and low temperature interfered a little with the spectators' enjoyment of the contest.

The possibility that might have shaken the confidence of the Yanks was dispelled when Lazzeri reported himself able to start the game at second base. It had been reported that Lazzeri was severely shaken up in one of the collisions at second base yesterday and that he would be forced to remain out of the lineup today. Unquestionably this would have weakened the American League champions. Lazzeri, however, turned up at game time and said his injury would not bother him, insisting on going to his regular place in the lineup.

BABE GIVES FANS TREAT

The game began exactly the same as yesterday's, Combs flying out to Barnhart. Koenig followed with a single. Then the crowd had its first big chance of the series to yell when Aldridge struck out the mighty Ruth. The Babe swung at the third ball and missed it by a wide margin.

Vic did not lose his steadiness after walking Gehrig and coolly tossed out Meusel on an easy tap to the box.

The uproar that Ruth's strikeout caused in the first half of the inning was exceeded in the second half when Lloyd Waner greeted Pipgras with a three-base drive to the left field wall and scored a moment later on Barnhart's long sacrifice fly to Ruth. It was the first time in the series that the Pirates had been in the lead.

The advance dope that the Yankees had faced no such curve ball pitching in the American League as Vic Aldridge was capable of throwing was borne out in the first two innings, when the Yankees were going out on easy taps or fanning. They were merely fouling little flies in the air. Gooch caught two of these in that inning. Aldridge's curve was breaking so beautifully that he was fooling even Umpire Nallin, who appeared to miss several strikes in the second inning, calling balls on curves that broke squarely over the plate.

UMP'S "MUFF" COSTLY

Another missed strike by Umpire Nallin on Combs in the third and which was vigorously protested by a multitude of fans opened the way for a rally and put the Yankees in the lead. Combs, instead of being called out on strikes, took advantage of the extra opportunity afforded him and made a single to right. Koenig singled to center and the ball was fumbled by Lloyd Waner, with the result that Combs scored and Koenig reached third. Ruth's sacrifice fly to Lloyd Waner in deep center scored Koenig. Gehrig's double, Meusel's infield single and Lazzeri's sacrifice fly to Waner, produced another run. Much of this might have been avoided if Nallin had not again been fooled by Aldridge's curve ball while Combs was at bat. The crowd showed its sympathy for Aldridge by loudly applauding him when he stepped to the bat at the beginning of Pittsburgh's half of the third. "Hard luck Vic," "You got to get everybody out twice," yelled a fan.

Keeping Tab on Babe, Lou and the Waners

In the Opening Series Game

BABE RUTH

FIRST INNING—Singled to right, scored on Gehrig's triple.

THIRD INNING—Singled to right, went second when Gehrig walked, third on Meusel's walk. Scored on Lazzeri's tap to Wright.

FIFTH INNING—Grounded out to Grantham.

SEVENTH INNING—Singled to center. He was caught off first a moment later.

LOU GEHRIG

FIRST INNING—His little fly to right fell in front of Paul Waner for a scratch triple.

THIRD INNING—He walked, went to second when Meusel drew a base on balls, and third as Lazzeri forced Meusel, Wright to Grantham and scored when Smith muffed Traynor's relay on an attempted double steal.

EIGHTH INNING—He grounded out, Miljus to Harris.

HE HAD 8 PUTOUTS, 1 ASSIST.

LLOYD WANER

FIRST INNING—Was hit with pitched ball and went to third when Brother Paul doubled to right. Scored on Wright's sacrifice fly to Combs.

THIRD INNING—He flied out to Meusel.

FIFTH INNING—He doubled to left, and scored when Barnhart singled to the same field.

SEVENTH INNING—Was thrown out by Lazzeri.

NINTH INNING—He lined out to Combs.

HE HAD 1 PUTOUT.

PAUL WANER

FIRST INNING—He doubled to right and went to third on Wright's sacrifice fly.

THIRD INNING—He singled to center and was forced out at second when Wright grounded to Lazzeri.

FIFTH INNING—He beat out a slow roller to Lazzeri for a single.

EIGHTH INNING—He lined out to Meusel.

HE ACCEPTED 3 CHANCES IN THE FIELD.

Dempsey and Tunney. In the Yankee second Vic Aldridge threw what is known as a dust-off ball at Lazzeri. Tony did not forget to duck, but he did register a little indignation. Tony got even in his own way by bouncing a single off Aldridge's glove.

Umpire Nallin, behind the plate, had a dissenter in a fan sitting in the second tier, who, in loud voice, insisted that Umpire Nallin was intent on giving "our boys" the worst of it.

Aldridge had a beautiful breaking curve working in the second inning. Dugan and Bengough could only foul it off. Gooch catching both of them, but Pipgras got hold of one for a sharp liner, which was nabbed by the cat-like Grantham.

With one out in the Pirates' second, Grantham got his first hit of the series, a looping liner to center.

Gooch fouled out to Bengough to end the Pirate second. It was Johnny's first time at bat in the series, as he sat on the bench yesterday while Earl Smith did the catching.

Against Combs in the Yankee third, Aldridge thought his curve had Combs struck out. He protested by the gesture of stooping to look at what he figured was the flight of the ball over the plate. This caused the fans to hoot at Umpire Nallin. Combs singled to right. A howl of dismay went up on Koenig's single to center which Lloyd Waner fumbled, a misplay which allowed Combs to score and Koenig to take third. The Yankees went out in front then when Ruth sent a high sacrifice fly to Lloyd Waner, scoring Koenig.

There was real concern among the fans when Gehrig smacked a vicious double to right center. Manager Bush began making motions to the pitchers in the bull pen.

Meusel beat out a lazy grounder to Wright as Gehrig made third.

There was no chance to get Gehrig at home after Lazzeri's sacrifice fly to Paul Waner. He came in standing up. On the play at the plate Meusel moved down to second. Dugan ended the inning with an easy fly to Paul Waner.

In spite of the fact that the Yankees had got four hits and three runs off Aldridge in the third, Vic got an encouraging hand as he went to the plate to open the Pirate half of the third. The error that young Lloyd Waner made in the Pirate third did not prevent the crowd from greeting him cheerily when he followed Aldridge to the plate after Vic had lined out.

Two Mistaken For Scalpers Freed

Mistaken for scalpers, Oscar Glassman, 24, and his brother, Joseph, 27, who came to the world series as the guests of a Philadelphia newspaper, received the apologies of Father Pitt this morning from Magistrate George H. England at Central Police Court. While exchanging tickets at Forbes Field so that they could sit together, they were arrested on the charge of violating a city ordinance. They were discharged by England when they told their story of trading seats.

ROBBER SLAIN IN "COMEBACK"

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—(AP.)—"Well, here I am again," said a robber today, entering a downtown drug store and facing a clerk he held up a week ago.

"All right, buddie," replied the clerk, walking from behind the soda fountain as the robber reached into a pocket for his pistol.

There were five shots in rapid succession and the robber dropped dead, his pistol undrawn. Arthur Thomas, the clerk who shot him, had been carrying a pistol, figuring the robber might return.

AUTO THEFT SUSPECT ARRESTED AT MERCER

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 6.—Nelson Dennison, Youngstown, O., grape juice salesman, is in the county jail for, police said, trying to steal the automobile of D. R. Ragsdale, Grove City. Ragsdale hadn't left his car more than a minute when it started moving.

right about that mob. We started out ourselves with a corsage and a new scarf to add to our holiday embellishments and ended up lucky to be properly attired, without any embarrassment. The New York strap-hanger commuters, with us in large numbers, must have felt right at home.

Overhead the sky so blue and peaceful looking it could hardly be associated with the excitement under foot. Airplanes humming over 44,000 people, sitting, standing, hanging from rafters—decorating the surrounding buildings and the big clock. There wasn't a spot big enough to hold a human being that wasn't taken up.

And, mercy! Deah me, the din! The lady with the aesthetic soul said so herself. She was miserable—personally. A man in the "balcony" as she called it was constantly on his feet waving his arms like a scarecrow in the breeze and yelling.

Said she:

"John, who is that PERSON? He annoys me. I can't concentrate."

John looked daggers at his more spiritual half and asked a bit sourly:

"What d'ye think this is—a seance? That guy is Red Mason, the most celebrated rooter in Pittsburgh."

A series crowd has no time for "shoits" hanging around and getting in the way. We were told while trying to get in the gate after walking around two blocks to keep from getting smashed:

"Ah, pipe the shoit! Who d'ye think y'are, Mrs. Coolidge?"

It a kindly policeman hadn't seen our press badge we might never have seen the series. The hum and the buzz and the noise was like a symphony to the old-timers who sat around at the typewriters in the press section smiling absently and remembering bygone days.

Six boys, bless their hearts, had a chance to slip over the fence when the cops weren't looking. And, between us, we think a nice big good natured Irish cop turned his back on purpose. That grin was too satisfied when he turned around. If there are really stars in crowns here's hoping his will glitter like a Christmas tree some day. That's human. Every boy in the world should have been there yesterday. But how many of the big boys grown tall would have sacrificed their opportunity to give it to a kid?

A madhouse before the game, there wasn't a sound when the Star Spangled Banner was played and sang and the flag was raised. Except for the constant buzzing of the crowd outside still waiting to get in the park might have been empty.

Rich man, poor man, beggarman, thief. Doctor, lawyer (we didn't see a solitary Indian chief) were there. That is, not counting all the ladies who bit their nails and rent the air with their girlish screeches.

Even the Aesthetic Soul forgot herself and left the game singing:

"Take me out to the ball game. . . . Buy me some peanuts and cracker-jacks."

We bet she'll be back today chewing gum. Horrors!

SUPREME COURT RULES WOODSIDE ELIGIBLE

Attack on Controller Nominee Quashed

Robert G. Woodside, Republican candidate for county controller, is eligible to fill that office, the State Supreme Court decided in an opinion handed down by Chief Justice von Moschzisker today.

SUIT FAILED

Woodside's eligibility was attacked a few days before the September 20 primaries by Lulu Mosby and Joseph Painter, who brought suit against the County Commissioners and Woodside to keep his name off the ballot, alleging the term of County Controller to which office Woodside aspired, would begin within two years after the expiration of Woodside's term as sheriff in violation of a state statute.

In the lower court, Woodside won the verdict. The case was appealed and argued a few days after the primary election.

FOUR DAYS SHORT

After reciting the law and numerous decisions, the Supreme Court holds that the term "years" means official years and not calendar years. The opinion says in part:

"We conclude that Robert G. Woodside may lawfully be elected to the office for which he is a candidate and that the court below did not err in dismissing plaintiff's bill; but since the proceedings in this court have been treated by all parties to the record as if the appeals were taken to accomplish a public purpose, we shall not put the costs thereof on appellants.

"The decree is affirmed, costs of appeal to be paid by the County of Allegheny."

Woodside's term as Controller, if elected, would start just four days short of two calendar years from the expiration of his sheriff tenure.

BURSTING STEAM LINE BURNS WELL DRILLER

KNOX, Pa., Oct. 6.—Burned when a steam line in a drilling well on which he was working burst, Russell Mong, 19, is in a critical condition.

COLLINS AVENUE SAFE ROBBED

Robbers who broke into the Union Top Manufacturing Company plant, 346 Collins avenue, last night, used an acetylene torch to cut the combination and lock from a safe. The safe was rifled but officials of the company said they could not estimate the amount of loot.

MEDICAL SOCIETY ELECTS PITTSBURGH OFFICERS

Sectional meetings in the University Club, Memorial Hall and the Hotel Schenley, made up today's program of the seventy-seventh annual convention of the Medical Society of the state of Pennsylvania, which opened here Monday morning. Dr. Thomas G. Simonton of Pittsburgh is the new president of the society and Dr. Robert L. Anderson of Pittsburgh the new vice president, elected yesterday. More than 1,200 delegates are attending the sessions.

TRAFFIC COURT 'AS USUAL'

"The world series jammed traffic but it did not slow up the work of Traffic Court," said Magistrate J. J. Staley today in denying the report that he would hear no cases while the Pirates and Yankees are playing here. He declared that court was conducted as usual and no cases were postponed on account of the baseball excitement.

VANDERGRIFT COLLECTOR OF TAXES ACCUSED

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Oct. 6.—Accused of embezzling $12.50, Tax Collector W. T. Smith has posted $1,000 bond for a hearing. The charge was brought by Constable Joseph Levandoski before Justice S. K. Hunger. Smith, who resigned as borough manager a year ago, blocked attempts to hold an election for tax collector by taking advantage of an old law. He says the charge has been brought as a means of retaliation by political enemies.

CHICAGO'S 72ND BOMBING OF '27 BREAKS WINDOWS

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—The seventy-second bombing of the present year has been recorded here. A black powder bomb destroyed the plate glass window in front of a plate and auto glass company here.

BOBBED HAIR TEACHERS BANNED IN TOKIO SCHOOLS

TOKYO, Oct. 6.—The Minister of Education in Tokio has decided that Japanese girls who bob their hair will not succeed as teachers. He has issued an iron-clad rule not to employ bobber-hair girls in the schools.

BEACH SURRENDERS, FACES GRAND JURY

May Be Indicted for Lilliendahl Murder

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Oct. 6.—(AP.)—Willis Beach, charged with aiding and abetting in the killing of Dr. A. Lilliendahl, the South Vineland retired physician, today surrendered to the state police and was placed in the Atlantic county jail here.

His surrender took place before 8 a. m. on the outskirts of the town, in accordance with a prearranged plan of his counsel, Edson Hedges of Atlantic City.

Today was set for the grand jury to hear testimony in connection with the case.

Beach was well dressed. He was rushed to the jail. Newspaper men were not permitted to talk to him.

In refusing to permit Beach to be interviewed, Frank Harrold, chief of Atlantic City detectives, said "no one will talk to him until after he is indicted."

Beach now is under arrest on the charge of being an accessory in the killing, and Harrold's remark indicated to observers that an indictment for a more serious offense is proposed.

Beach, who is a poultry raiser and a neighbor of the Lilliendahls, was with Hedges when he gave himself up. The prisoner is said to have been staying at Medford.

Willis Beach has figured almost as prominently in the investigation of the killing of Dr. Lilliendahl near Hammonton on September 15 as has the physician's widow, Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, who has been subpenaed to appear before the grand jury today. She is under $25,000 bail as a material witness.

Stuff Auto Engine With Gunpowder In Bomb Plot

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Oct. 6.—(AP.)—What apparently was a plot to kill a prominent resident of the Berkshires by stuffing the cylinders of his automobile with gunpowder caused considerable conjecture here today. The motorist was unidentified beyond the report that he was a well-known resident.

The autoist escaped death only because the spark failed as the powder-packed motor could not be turned over. Enough explosive was discovered to blow the machine and its occupants to pieces.

PLEDGE MINES NATIONALIZING

By ROBERT J. PREW.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Another pledge to nationalize the coal mines of Great Britain was given on behalf of the Labor Party, at its Blackpool conference.

Former Premier MacDonald said: "If a labor government comes into office, it is going to take on the duty of nationalizing the mines. Taking them in bulk, there is no body of employers in the country who act with more harsh tyranny than the coal owners."

Labor's future legislative program as outlined today also includes raising the school-leaving age to 16 and the establishment of a national fund to provide relief for the unemployed.

SOMERSET WANTS REED TO SPEAK ARMISTICE DAY

SOMERSET, Pa., Oct. 6.—United States Senator David A. Reed has been invited to speak at the Armistice Day celebration to be held at Salisbury by the American Legion posts of Somerset county.

COURT TO DECIDE 'BEAUTY CONTEST'

BEAUTIES AT WAR

They both claim the title of Miss Florida. Myrtle Manon (at right) is suing Ada Williams, left, to restrain her from using a document in which Miss Manon relinquishes her title. Miss Manon claims the document was obtained through duress. The two girls will appear in court Friday to decide the case.

Henry J. Lenon, mentioned as the "mysterious Harry Steele," who investigated the character of William L. King of the Citizens' League for Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh and who was recently identified as a clerk in the District Attorney's office, addressed the Lions Club of Clairton, last night on "The Enemy Within Our Gates."

The enemy, according to Mr. Lenon, is composed of men in public office who are unfit to be there, and who are placed there because of the failure of many to vote. He also advised voters not to desert their party, but to "clean up the rottenness from the inside."

CONCENTRATING ON WILSON BROTHERS HABERDASHERY

The Ensemble Idea—

SIMPLY THIS: Pick out the suit you're going to wear tomorrow. Then choose a shirt that harmonizes in color with the suit, with your hair and with your complexion. Select a necktie that looks well with the ensemble thus far created, and a pocket handkerchief that rhymes with the color scheme. Don't forget the socks—they, too, should jibe.

Now, you've assembled an ensemble—a Blend! Mind you, the ingredients don't have to match, merely harmonize. The theme of color and pattern should be inter-related.

Then, put on the suit and the furnishings. If you're any judge of color harmony at all, you'll be agreeably surprised by the results. See for yourself how the general appearance has been improved. Note how this harmonious combination adds zest and refined dignity to your make-up. You'll agree that the Ensemble idea is just what men have been waiting years for.

And if you run into any difficult color harmony problems—if you find green doesn't go well with red—drop in on us. We'll gladly give you a few color combinations you can't go wrong on. We'll be pleased to supply you with furnishings—celebrated Wilson Brothers Haberdashery—actually created with the Ensemble in mind.

GLASS STRIKE HERE IS ENDED

The strike of 450 employes of the American Window Glass Company, composing the Window Glass Cutters and Flatteners' Protective Association of America, ended this afternoon when the wage committee of the union, obeying a vote of the whole membership, signed an agreement with the company to accept the wage scale in effect from January, 1927, until October 1, when the workers walked out. The strikers, who had accepted a 10 per cent cut in their pay last January, had demanded restoration of the old scale—that is an increase of about 12 per cent in their wages.

William L. Monro, president of the company, yesterday had laid down as an ultimatum to the strikers, that they accept the wage scale just expired or terminate their negotiations with the employers. The referendum of the members of the union was taken last night, but the returns from the local at Hartford City, Ind., had not been received at noon today.

Window glass workers in other parts of the country, composing the Window Glass Cutters' and Flatteners' Association of America, Inc., a different union and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, also are on strike. It was said at the office of their president, E. H. Gillet, that they had arranged for no further conferences with the employers and could not tell what the effect of the settlement of the American Window Glass Company strike on their own situation would be.

RESERVE RULING IN EVICTIONS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—(AP.)—The Superior Court today reserved decision after hearing argument on the appeals of discharged employes of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation opposing the company's action to dispossess them of their homes in company-owned houses in Castle Shannon borough, Allegheny county, Pa. The appeals cover 75 or more cases of employe tenants who were defendants in ejectment proceedings in the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny county.

The ejectment proceedings followed a strike at the company's mine No. 2 and are based on leases under which, it is alleged, an employe agrees to deliver peaceably the possession of the premises in which he lives to the coal company within five days after being notified of his discharge from the company's employ.

There are said to be 118 companies who will be affected more or less by the Appellate Court's decision.

ROBBERY EPIDEMIC LAID TO SERIES-RUSH THUGS

Woman's Purse Stolen As Crowds Look On

Criminals invading Pittsburgh in the World's Series rush are blamed for an epidemic of petty robberies and purse-snatching in the city.

While hundreds standing in line for general admission tickets at Forbes Field yesterday watched, a Negro snatched the purse of Mrs. Frank Ellair of 2 Dimling way, one of those in line.

There was a general cry of "Stop thief" as the Negro ran with Mrs. Ellair's purse, but none of the fans risked their places in line to try to capture him.

Mrs. Ellair said she had $2 and a wrist watch valued at $25 in the purse. She did not get to see the game.

Miss Emma Hopewell of 144 Perryview avenue reported that an 18-year-old boy ran past her and snatched her purse containing $14 while she was walking in Perrysville avenue.

A youth, leaping from an automobile, snatched the purse of Mrs. Thomas Rose of 5557 Beacon street.

After obtaining the purse, containing a check for $25 and some small change, the thief escaped in his machine.

Another thief invaded the home of Mrs. H. K. Brady of 231 Watsonia boulevard. Under a pretense of selling flowers he called Mrs. Brady to her kitchen door and then pushed past her into the kitchen and stole a purse containing $14.

An armed robber held up L. J. Grati and Miss Mary Jones while they were getting a drink at a Riverview Park pump, they reported to police. Grati said the robber drove up in an automobile, threatened him with a revolver, took $5 from his pockets and then sped away.

Mrs. William Widan of 120 North Linden avenue reported to police that while visiting the home of a relative at 5526 Bartlett street, two diamond rings valued at $1,800 disappeared. She said they had been stolen from the house by a sneak thief or that she had lost them.

FANS' CARS, TOO CLOSE, SEIZED

Hundreds of fans who found choice parking place for their automobiles in Roquet street, Sennott street, Oakland avenue, and other places near the entrance to Forbes Field yesterday morning before police squads went on duty, were unable to find their cars after the game, police having ordered the machines towed in to nearby garages.

Some of the cars were taken to Schenley oval, some to a garage in Forbes street, and to other garages in the Oakland district.

Picture the early birds who drove up to within a square of the gates at Forbes Field in the wee hours of yesterday morning:

"This is pretty nice," they chuckled as they locked their machines, feeling sure no one could get into the car to move it or steal it in broad daylight.

"Not so tough," mused the police towcar men as they hoisted the front end with a crane on the back end of the truck and hauled it away to parts unknown.

Some of the fans are still looking for their cars. Many were lucky enough to locate their machines yesterday, but they didn't consider themselves lucky when told they had to pay $5 to recover them.

Scalpers' Prices Are Coming Down

Tickets for today's game are more plentiful in the vicinity of Forbes Field than downtown, and scalpers' prices are more reasonable in Oakland, too, a survey made this morning revealed.

As much as $25 was asked for a seat in the new grandstand this morning in William Penn way, but after looking about a bit another scalper was found who offered a ticket for $20.

"Too much!" he expostulated to a bit of haggling. "Say, mister, these pasteboards are scarcer'n good likker, but I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll let you have it for $18."

Near Forbes Field plenty of scalpers were to be found—not openly advertising their wares, however. A veiled inquiry brought one hurrying from Sennott street, and after much whispering, so one of the many blue-coats in the district would not overhear, he offered a fairly good seat for $10.

General admission seats were sold by the ball club management this morning at three booths especially erected in a vacant lot next to the Schenley theater. Fans did not learn of this until almost noon, however, and there was plenty of opportunity to get one of the coveted pasteboards. As the day wore on these booths as well as the other ticket windows at the field were jammed, the lines reaching several blocks.

FRENCH MAIDS, ARRESTED, SUE

Clotilde Archer has entered suit against Donald Maclaren Simons, of Sewickley, for $10,000 damages for false arrest. The plaintiff was a domestic in the home of Simons at Sewickley, and was charged by the defendant with conspiracy and abandonment of children. According to her claim, she was arrested last September 29 on a warrant sworn out by Simons before Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan and confined in jail at Edgeworth two days. She brings the suit for loss of wages, humiliation, pain and suffering caused by her loss of liberty. Josephine Laurelle, who was also a domestic in Simons' service, brings a similar suit for a like amount and on the same grounds. The plaintiffs, who were former residents of France, were arrested at the same time.

HUNT BOY FOR BURNING LAD TO DEATH

VICTIM DOUSED WITH OIL AND SET AFIRE

Police are seeking a boy who set fire to the clothing of Edward Dickson, 9, of 4305 Main street, while playing "bad man" Sunday night. The Dickson boy died last night in St. Francis Hospital.

Hospital authorities and police were told how young Dickson's assailant, a larger boy wearing a handkerchief mask, pushed him into a shed, upsetting a can of gasoline and then threw a lighted match on his clothing. Edward Carney, 4302 Main street, a playmate of young Dickson, opened the door of the shed and called for help as his companion ran out with his clothing aflame. Neighbors extinguished the blaze and Dickson was taken to the hospital.

Deputy Coroner Robert Newman notified the homicide squad of the case following Dickson's death last night.

AGED WOMAN DIES FROM ST. LOUIS TORNADO SHOCK

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rose Lakin, 70, died yesterday at City Hospital from shock suffered when the roof of her home was blown off in the tornado here last Thursday. She was not injured physically, but was virtually paralyzed by fright.

Her death was one of several indirectly attributed to the storm, in addition to 78 deaths in St. Louis and vicinity, listed by the coroner, as due to tornado injuries. All 36 persons reported to police as missing after the storm have been accounted for.

BOY CROSSING STREET BOWLED OVER BY AUTO

Joseph Tattors, 16, of 4401 Gladstone street, struck by an automobile while crossing Oliver avenue yesterday, suffered severe contusions of the head. He was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. S. G. Drake, of 203 Merriman street, driver of the car, was not arrested.

WILKINSBURG MAN HURT TRYING TO SEE GAME

Edward Schwartz, 20, of 511 Kelly street, Wilkinsburg, fell 15 feet into Sennott street while attempting to climb a wall to see the World Series game at Forbes Field yesterday. He was able to go home after being treated for bruises at the Children's Hospital.

MOVIE WRITER DIES IN FALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP.)—While a party celebrating his sale of a motion picture scenario was in progress early today, Paul Fairfax Fuller, 29, scenario writer and editor, fell to his death from a ninth floor window of the Park Central Hotel.

Detectives said they believed the fall was an accident. Miss Helen Green, motion picture actress in whose apartment the party was held, said Fuller had stepped out of the room, saying he would return shortly.

PULLMAN RIDER ASKS $25,000

Marie Milmoe entered suit against the Pullman Company for $25,000 damages for personal injuries. The plaintiff alleges that she was a passenger on a sleeping car of the defendant company en route to Pittsburgh from Washington, leaving the latter place on the evening of October 5, 1925. On the morning of October 6, 1925, while she was descending a ladder from an upper berth, the train gave a lurch, throwing her to the floor. Attorney John M. Henry represents the plaintiff.

ITALIANS HERE TO HONOR MEMORY OF COLUMBUS

The Italian-American organizations of Pittsburgh will hold their annual three-day celebration in honor of Christopher Columbus beginning Sunday at 3 o'clock, when a special program of addresses and entertainment will be given in the Liberty Theater. The celebration will end the following Wednesday with a ball in the Hotel Schenley.

8,963 LOCOMOTIVES NEED REPAIRS, REPORT SHOWS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Class 1 railroads had 8,963 locomotives in need of repair on September 15, or 14.7 per cent of the number on line, the American Railway Association announced. This was an increase of 461 from September 1.

'DEAD MAN' SEES 'OWN BODY'

While Miss Nellie Walker of Baltimore was positively identifying a body in the morgue yesterday afternoon as that of her father, whom she had not seen for years, the supposed dead man, Joseph Walker, a chef, was standing directly behind her.

With her father was her uncle, Harry Walker, who, after viewing the body in question, had notified Nellie that her parent was dead. The dead man was Joseph Thomas, 50, of 133 Randolph street, whose features resembled those of Walker.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Helen Shaddle Stonerod.

Mrs. Helen Shaddle Stonerod, wife of Fielding D. Stonerod, 3157 Woodworth street, died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elmer J. Strothers, 1351 Cordova street.

Mrs. Stonerod, 64, had been ill for several months. Formerly she was active in church work. For 41 years she belonged to Fourth Presbyterian Church, and for 20 years was president of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association of the church. She was also a member of the Aid Society of the Presbyterian Hospital and the Order of the Eastern Star. She leaves her husband, daughter, a son, Charles Howard Stonerod, of Lansdowne, Pa.; a brother, William C. Shaddle, of Pittsburgh, and five grandchildren. The funeral will be held Saturday with interment in Allegheny Cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Gauss.

Mrs. Mary Gauss, 78, a lifelong member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, North Side, died Tuesday in her home, 1822 Chestnut street. Mrs. Gauss was born in Germany and came to the Pittsburgh district 59 years ago. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Julia Huber of Woodland, Pa., and Mrs. A. G. Orth and Miss Teresa Gauss, both of Pittsburgh; two sons, J. C. and C. E. Gauss, of Pittsburgh, and a sister, Mrs. Catherine Seng of Pittsburgh.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH RASH

Itched and Burned. Got Very Little Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"My face broke out in a rash. It itched and burned causing me to scratch, and my face was disfigured. For five weeks it troubled me, and I got very little sleep in that time.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using it got relief from the burning feeling. I bought more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Joseph Wall, 122 E. 130th St., New York City, July 29, 1926.

Make Cuticura Soap and Ointment your every-day toilet preparations and have a clear, sweet skin, soft, smooth hands and a healthy scalp with good hair. Cuticura Talcum is unexcelled in purity.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. X, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

Is Your Tongue Coated in the Morning?

A coated tongue is a danger signal! It's a sure sign of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. And it's a sure sign that you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope. Read what Mr. Clarence D. Hinkle, of 4345 Fleming St., Phila., Pa., says: "I had spells of nervousness and indigestion. After taking Tanlac for four weeks I noticed a great improvement. My stomach became strong, I had no pains after meals, got my appetite back and can sleep nights."

That coated tongue tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells. See how the first bottle of Tanlac helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

RETAIL TRAINING CONFERENCE OPENS

"The public discriminates more and more in its buying," said J. G. Clark, of the Robert Simpson Company, Toronto, Canada, in an address at the opening of the tenth annual conference of the University of Pittsburgh's Research Bureau for Retail Trading in the Mellon Institute this morning. "Customers are asking questions as never before; hence it is important that the buyers of the department stores give the salespeople complete information concerning the merchandise."

Apropos of this, Dr. David R. Craig, of the Research Bureau's staff, asserted that people coming to Pittsburgh to shop found the service in the local department stores vastly superior to that in other cities. The store staffs here are being taught, he said, that to persuade a customer to buy something that he may later regret having bought is poor salesmanship."

Training and personnel directors from 17 department stores in 12 cities, doing an annual business of nearly $400,000,000, are attending the conference. They were welcomed by Dr. James H. Greene, director of the bureau.

Rum Concession At Ball Park Costs $50

A liquor vending concession to the chilled fans who wait all night outside the general admission gate at Forbes Field is worth $50. That was the tax assessed by Magistrate William Scott on E. D. Francis, 25, of 2849 Sarah street, who appeared before him charged with having sold liquor to persons in the line.

REINHOLD MAY BE ENVOY TO U. S.

By Universal Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—Because it is believed he would be the best qualified man to bring about a revision of the Dawes plan, Dr. Peter Reinhold, who was minister of finance under Chancellor Luther, has become a candidate with good prospects of being appointed to succeed Baron Ago von Maltzan as ambassador to Washington.

Dr. Reinhold has just returned from a tour of America. According to the press service of the Democratic party, to which Dr. Reinhold belongs, he has already been asked if he would accept the post.

THE NEW ERA IN TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION

In seven years, the time consumed in making an out-of-town call has been cut to less than half.

Nearby points are now reached just as on local calls. That spells CONVENIENCE.

In 1920 it required about fifteen minutes to reach a city two hundred miles away. Today, the nation-wide average time is five minutes, and few calls require as much as ten. That spells SPEED.

Last year alone the amount of telephone "trouble" was reduced 17%. Storm- and trouble-defying cables are fast replacing open wire lines. That spells DEPENDABILITY.

Canada, Cuba, and now parts of Europe and Mexico are within talking distance. That spells GREATER SCOPE.

A more convenient, a faster, a more dependable service, and a service which reaches almost the entire English-speaking world.

And it did not "just happen." Fifty years of research, study, development, experiment, and experience are responsible for this new-era telephone service.

Stock Company Quits Saturday But Will Come Back Next Year, Bigger and Better, Says Sharp

By George Seibel

George Sharp is not a Pittsburgher, but he is going to be. Pittsburghers have been so kind to him and his stock company at the Pitt Theater during the past 22 weeks that he is coming back next season to repay their kindness by giving them a better company, if possible, and a more interesting group of plays, if possible.

GEORGE SEIBEL

"Pittsburgh people want good things," he said. "We have put on 17 plays in all. The one that ran three weeks was a serious drama, 'Rain,' and that most delightful comedy, 'The Patsy,' ran for two weeks. This has given me the idea that next season, if conditions are favorable, we may attempt things even bigger and better."

Mr. Sharp is a man of keen intelligence a little man with a quick mind—an artist at heart with a strong business sense. Curious to know what he meant by "bigger and better" I queried:

"What have you in mind? Shakespeare?"

"Perhaps."

"Ibsen?"

"Why not?"

Certainly Anne Forrest would make a good Nora or Hedda. She has Viking blood in her, too. And she could be an arch Rosalind or an adorable Viola.

"I do not like to talk of things so far in the future, theatrically speaking," Mr. Sharp went on. "But we are coming back, and will try to make this company a permanent Pittsburgh institution. People want the drama in three dimensions, not merely flickers and shadows. They want to hear the human voice, not merely echoes and static. But the average man cannot afford to pay two days' wages for two hours' entertainment. A stock company saves the railroad's share of the admission price, at least. And it gives good actors a chance to get out of the ruts of long runs."

Since May 9 Mr. Sharp has presented 17 plays in the Pitt Theater: Four dramas, four mystery plays, four comedy-dramas and five comedies. Of these "The Gorilla," a mystery play, and "Seventh Heaven," a drama, drew the largest houses; while "My Son," a drama, and "The Cat and the Canary," a mystery play, ranked third and fourth in popularity. So it would seem that public interest responds with equal fervor to the harrowing shrieks of a distraught heroine or dramatic emotions that move to tears.

No doubt a great deal of Mr. Sharp's success has been due to his personal selection of the players who have appeared. He has been able, by knowing them personally, to secure some people who are near the top in the profession. Among these were Ann Harding now playing in "The Case of Mary Dugan;" Harry Bannister, at present appearing in "Revelry;" Alexander Kirkland, who left to join Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Company and was seen at the Nixon a few weeks ago in "The Cradle Song;" Douglas Wood, a member of the "Romancin' Round" cast in New York; Anne Forrest, who won her spurs as star of "Seventh Heaven;" Mabel Kromer and Leah Winslow, both of whom appeared all last season in "Puppy Love" in New York. Local talent was given an opportunity when Herbert Clark and Jack Willard went on—but both have had good parts on Broadway, while Reed Hamilton, another Pittsburgher, who was assistant manager, has been leading man for Patricia Collinge and Irene Bordoni.

Pittsburgh is sorry to see Mr. Sharp go, and will be glad to welcome him back.

They're Titles -:- Now And Then -:- Plays, Directs

H. B. WARNER is the "Sorrel," and Mickey McBan is the "Son" of "Sorrel and Son."

ALICE JOYCE as she is at present in "Sorrel and Son" and as she appeared when she became recognized as a screen star, being one of the first film players to be known by name.

RAOUL WALSH, who plays Sergeant O'Hara with Gloria Swanson in "Sadie Thompson," also is director of the production.

FRIDAY MATINEE IS LISTED

In the Nixon tomorrow there will be a special matinee of "Out of the Night." Because of the World Series the regular matinee Wednesday was postponed until Friday. The regular matinee will be given Saturday.

The Saturday night performance of "Just Married" in the Pitt will be in the nature of a farewell party. As a parting note, Miss Forrest, Miss Kroman, Miss Winslow, and the balance of the popular players will make brief curtain speeches after the play.

The seat sale opened today for the engagement next week of "Interference" in the Alvin. In the cast are Arthur Wontner, A. E. Matthews, Phoebe Foster and Kathleen MacDonell. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

The Keith-Albee vaudeville program booked for the Davis next week features Carl Freed and his orchestra. On the screen Bebe Daniels and Gertrude Ederle will appear in "Swim, Girl, Swim."

The play coming to the Nixon next Monday evening, entitled "The Zoo," written by Michael Arlen and Winchell Smith, is a society comedy, in the cast are Roland Young, Wallace Eddinger, Irene Browne, Elsie Lawson and Lucile Watson. The seat sale opened today.

The Lander brothers are bringing to the Gayety next week their idea of a review, with Irene Leary, who headed "Kosher Kitty Kelly," the saxophone specialists, Six Jolly Jesters, and a chorus of 25 girls.

The vaudeville in the Harris next week will be headed by Gerber's Jesters in "A Laughter Revue," with a company including Harry Seymour, Val Irving, the Teller Sisters, Chat Germand and Joe Rock. The photoplay feature will be "The Coward," with Warner Baxter in the leading role.

Vaudeville in the Sheridan Square next week will include The Blue Grass Four, a quartet in instrumental and vocal music. The two screen presentations will be "Silk Stockings," with Laura LaPlante, and "The Coward," with Warner Baxter.

"Spring Fever," coming to the screen of the Penn next week, has William Haines in the leading role. Since doing "Brown of Harvard" Haines has been hailed as one of the big box office attractions of the screen.

Laura La Plante, in "Silk Stockings," will be on the screen in Loew's Aldine, beginning Monday, October 10.

"American Beauty," Billie Dove's current picture, comes to the Grand next week. Edythe Chapman plays the role of the star's mother.

"Social Maids," next week's attraction in the Academy is a burlesque presented by a company including Chuck Wilson, Rose Bernard and Naomi Wheeler.

RECITAL TO BE GIVEN FOR SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Carl Diton, of Philadelphia, president of the National Federation of Negro Musicians, will be presented in recital in the Schenley High School auditorium Monday, November 7, in a benefit program to aid the scholarship fund of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity.

ADOLPHE MENJOU NOW IS "BEAUTY DOCTOR"

Adolphe Menjou, after the completion of his current Paramount picture, "Serenade," will start work on "The Beauty Doctor," an original story by the Hungarian dramatist, Ernest Vajda.

Sorry To Leave

GEORGE SHARP

After spending several months in Pittsburgh as manager of the successful George Sharp Production Stock Company in the Pitt, Mr. Sharp regrets that the engagement is coming to an end, but he is planning to return next season.

Mayer Says Stars Now Working In Earnest

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The movie stars have gotten over their temperaments and are going to work in earnest. And the salary reduction threat made last spring had a lot to do with it. So believes Louis B. Mayer, vice president of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation and noted expert in picture production.

Mr. Mayer says:

"I think all of the intelligent artists—those of stellar magnitude, I mean—have realized that 'brainstorms' burn up their talents quicker than hard work and they've cut them out. Talk among producers of salary slashes for featured players had a lot to do with it.

"Salaries to stars can't go much higher. The income of the picture business has about reached its peak. I think salaries will go down instead of up.

"Your average star is always fearful that some new face will displace him in the esteem of the box office patrons—that some youngster playing a bit in his production will bob up and steal the show from him. New names and new faces also represent added box office impetus."

I. C. C. TO HEAR RAILROAD MERGER CASE NOV. 1-2

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has set oral arguments in the Van Sweringen railroad merger project for November 1 and 2. They will be on applications of the Chesapeake and Ohio to acquire control of the Erie and Pere Marquette and to issue additional stock.

Smile Nicely

New way restores "off-color" teeth to clearness quickly

DON'T think your teeth are naturally off-color and dull. You can restore them to amazing whiteness in a new way dentists advise.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel a film. A slippery coating that covers them, hides their color and invites tooth and gum troubles. Ordinary pastes and dentifrices won't successfully remove it.

That is why, in old days, so many smiles were ruined by ugly teeth and toneless gums. Now, thanks to modern science, there is a way to combat that film.

Just obtain a tube of the dentifrice called Pepsodent at your druggist's. Clear off that film tonight; clear white teeth are beautiful. Note then the amazing difference in your smile.

You'll be thankful for the suggestion. For thus you can change your whole appearance.

CRUCIAL MEXICAN CLASH NEAR

Calles Forces Act to Stamp Out Revolt

By International News Service.

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 6.—Decisive movements on the part of the Mexican government and the rebel forces which it is attempting to stamp out by arrest of all concerned and execution of the leaders were expected today, according to reports from Mexico City.

Sees Change

Some reports stated that a decisive battle was imminent near Vera Cruz, where the followers of Gen. Arnulfo Gomez, named as one of the leading revolutionists, are reported strong. Rebel forces and loyal troops dispatched to disperse them are reported nearing each other.

GOMEZ'S FATE DOUBTFUL

Another important move awaited is some official statement concerning the fate of Gen. Gomez. Certain apparently official advices said Gomez had been captured near Fort Pereto on his way to Vera Cruz and had been executed. These reports had not been officially confirmed today.

Conflicting reports reaching here from Vera Cruz, however, had Gen. Gomez free and at sea, sailing from Vera Cruz to an unknown destination.

Dispatches from the capital stated that the secretary of the interior had ordered the arrest of all persons believed to be implicated in the movement.

This order includes all persons who participated in the presidential campaigns of either Gomez or Gen. Serrano, who was executed.

Dispatches also told of the arrest in Mexico City of Vito Alessio Robles, former Mexican diplomat and an outstanding figure in the Gomez political party. Rafael Cepada, campaign manager for the Gomistas in the state of Coahuila, is under arrest at Saltillo. Gen. Porferio Gonzales and Maj. Gilberto Heredia were at Monterrey and turned over to the authorities.

Another development came when it was learned Americans on this side of the border were believed to have been involved in the revolt.

DR. J. A. MORAN

The acting dean of School of Accounts at Duquesne University sees the modern business man as one who demands that his prospective executives receive thorough grounding from authorities. Dr. Moran's school of Accounts opens tomorrow with the largest enrollment in its history.

COAL OUTPUT AT STRIKE PEAK

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Soft coal production broke all records since the strike was called April 1 last for the week ended October 1, when 10,250,000 net tons were mined, the National Coal Association reports.

It marked the first week during the strike when production exceeded the 10,000,000 net ton mark. For the previous week 9,871,000 net tons were produced.

O'DONOVAN'S BRIDGE RE-OPENED TO TRAFFIC

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Will your skin bear close scrutiny?

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. Had a skin eruption. Was nervous, and had lost weight. After taking a course of S.S.S., I gained in weight; got rid of my nervousness; and my skin cleared up. I think S.S.S. is a most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did." Miss Margaret Frye, Lapel, Ind.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The Life and Letters of WOODROW WILSON

His Future Wife Comes Into Wilson's Life

Wilson's Meeting With Ellen Axson, and His Successful Courtship of Her

In the brief period of time that Wilson maintained a law office in Atlanta he had only one client, as described in yesterday's installment of "The Life and Letters of Woodrow Wilson" in The Sun-Telegraph. He found himself unsuited to the profession and its practice disagreeable to himself. So he abandoned the law and turned his attention to the studies in which he was passionately interested.

By RAY STANNARD BAKER

Wilson Meets Ellen Axson

WOODROW WILSON'S experience in Atlanta was at least one of self-discovery. And he was then, and always afterward, a swift learner. He wrote afterward to Ellen Axson that a man "must know the times in which he has been born, and this I did not know when I left college and chose my profession. . . ." He sees the change that has come about with the passage of the frontier life and by reason of the war:

"It is plain to see why lawyers used to be the only politicians. In a new country, in communities where every man had his bread to earn, they were the only men (except the minister and the physician) who stopped amidst the general hurry of life to get learning, and they were the only men, without exception, who were skilled in those arts of forensic contest that were calculated to fit men for entering the lists at political tilts, or for holding their own in legislative debate. They could hope, too, when a turn of partes might have come, or their own popularity might have waned, to return to their places at the bar to find a place still open for them, to find themselves not altogether and hopelessly crowded out; they could even, like Webster and Jeremiah Mason and many others of less genius, make law and statecraft live and thrive together, pleading causes in the courts even while holding seats in the Senate or leading parties in the House.

"But those times are passing away. A man who has to earn a livelihood cannot nowadays turn aside from his trade for intervals of office holding and political activity. He cannot even do two things at once. He is constrained by a minute division of labor to bend all his energies to the one thing that is nearest at hand. Even in the law men are becoming specialists. . . . Whoever thinks, as I thought, that he can practice law successfully and study history and politics at the same time is woefully mistaken. If he is to make a living at the bar he must be a lawyer and nothing else. Of course he can compass a certain sort of doubtful calling success by dint of dishonesty. He can obtain and betray clients by pretending a knowledge of the law which he does not possess, and he can often gain political office by the arts of the demagogue. But he cannot be both a learned lawyer and a profound and public-spirited statesman if he must plunge into practice and make the law a means of support."

Mustache and Whiskers

In April, 1883, he saw Ellen Axson for the first time. With some great men love and marriage are incidental and can be brushed aside with a mere chronicle of the dates; with Woodrow Wilson they were central to his life. His career cannot be understood without a knowledge of them. He had "come to himself" in a religious sense in Columbia at 16, intellectually at Princeton at 19, and now he was to know one of the deepest, if not the deepest, awakenings of his entire life.

It was in the month of April—the most enchanting of all the year in Atlanta, to take part in such politics! the "potentially great" but poverty-stricken firm of Renick & Wilson, attorneys-at-law of Atlanta, set off for a visit to Rome. A tall, well groomed young man "with a silky mustache and short side whiskers" carried himself with a dignity of assurance certainly not warranted by the eminence of his position in the legal world of Georgia. He had been learning many things about the rough world during the last year of his life, and although he had been admitted to practice in the Federal courts only three weeks before he was at the point of giving up law entirely, as his heroes, Burke, Bagehot and Sir Henry Maine had done before him, and return to "the advantages and delights of study."

In his bag he had a slim packet of papers, including a power of attorney, dealing with the affairs of his only important client—his mother. He was going up to confer with his uncle, James Bones, who had until recently managed her affairs. He took with him his typewriter, a calligraph, that he might draw any necessary papers or copy out further paragraphs from his stenographic notes of an essay which he was then preparing upon his favorite theme of cabinet government as it might be adapted to the American system.

He visited the Bones family who lived in East Rome, and called upon the Browers. Not far away dwelt the Tedcastles, also newly married, Mrs. Tedcastle having been Agnes Vaughn. Agnes Tedcastle and Jessie Brower numbered among their most intimate friends one of the "rarest and most beautiful girls that ever lived in Rome"—Ellen Louise Axson. She was the daughter of the Manse. Her father was the minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Rome, her grandfather, the "great Axson," was pastor of the famous Independent Presbyterian Church of Savannah.

Had Care of Children

Ellen Axson was not only the daughter of the Manse, but its mistress as well, for her mother had died two years previously and left a family of four children, of whom Ellen was the oldest. At 23 she was the head of a considerable household. A cousin who knew her well thus describes her:

"She always had a flower like appearance; her hair was a bronze gold, her eyes were a deep brown, and her face was all aglow with the marvelous color that she never lost.

It was Allen Axson who first saw Woodrow Wilson. She and Agnes Tedcastle were standing on the porch of the Tedcastle home. A young man was passing in the street below.

"Who is that fine-looking man?" asked Allen Axson.

"I don't know whether to tell you or not, you manhater," replied her friend. "That is Tommy Wilson."

The young man passing in the street was wholly unaware that he was being observed; he was unaware of Ellen Axson, though he had heard of her as the daughter of a friend of his father. Indeed, he himself once related that during a visit in his childhood, when he was a child of six or seven years and she not more than two, he had insisted upon holding her in his arms.

It was not until the following day, which was Sunday, that he saw her. The Bones family went to the Presbyterian Church in which James Bones was an elder.

We have Wilson's own account of that great experience;

"The first time I saw your face to note it was in church one morning during the first of my last spring's visits to Rome—in April, wasn't it? You wore a heavy crepe veil, and I remember thinking 'what a bright, pretty face; what spendid, mischievous, laughing eyes!' And when after the service (I think it had been a communion service) you spoke to Mrs. Bones I took another good look at you, and concluded that it would be a very clever plan to inquire your name and seek an introduction. When I learned that this was Miss 'Ellie Lou' Axson, of whom I had heard so often, quite a flood of light was let in on my understanding and I was conscious of having formed a small resolution.

A Fast Courtship

"I took an early opportunity of calling on the Rev. Mr. Axson. That dear gentleman received me with unsuspecting cordiality and sat down to entertain me under the impression that I had come to see only him. I had gone to see him, for I love and respect him and would have gone to see him with alacrity if he had never had a daughter, but I had not gone to see him alone. I had not forgotten that face, and I wanted very much to see it again; so I asked rather pointedly after his daughter's health, and he, in some apparent surprise, summoned you to the parlor. Do you remember?—and do you remember the topic of conversation? How your father made me 'tackle' that question that was so much to big for me: 'Why have night congregations grown so small?'"

It was a fast and furious courtship; there were long walks and longer talks, and boat rides and picnics. The youth "could not keep away." He "had to call every afternoon."

We have the first three little notes that Ellen Axson ever wrote him, preserved through the years—the first two on stiff black-bordered cards (for she was still in mourning for her mother) and primly addressed "Mr. Wilson," and the third on plain paper with the more intimate "Mr. Woodrow."

"Mr. Wilson:

"I am sincerely sorry that a previous engagement will deprive me of the pleasure of your company tonight. I would have been glad of the opportunity to welcome you back to Rome.

"Sincerely your friend,
"ELLEN AXSON."

"Thursday."

"Mr. Wilson:

"I have no engagement for this afternoon, and it will afford me pleasure to take the drive. I will be ready at the appointed hour.

"Very sincerely,
"ELLEN AXSON."

"Monday."

Wilson's Helpmeet

"Mr. Woodrow:

"Very unwillingly, and with the firm conviction that I am the most unfortunate of mortals, I write to tell Jessie, with my best thanks, that I won't be able to go on this picnic either—I, last evening, made an ill-timed engagement to take a boat ride on that afternoon, and, like Sterne's starling, 'I can't get out of it.' Excuse my keeping Lefoy so long, but all this time I have been trying in vain to devise ways and means of escape.

"There is no reason nor even—strange to say—disinclination, to prevent my saying most truthfully that I will be happy to walk with you this afternoon. With love to Jessie, I remain,

"Your sincere friend,
"ELLEN L. AXSON.

"Monday morning."

She was a girl of interests and aspirations not less high and fine than those of Woodrow Wilson. She had grown up in "a home of books and religion." She was then, and all her life afterward, a wide reader, her mind was alive with the best thought of the world. She had broader interests than the young lawyer of Atlanta with his intense passionate, consuming devotion to his political studies. She opened to him at once the world that Wordsworth knew, and Sidney Lanier and Robert Browning and Laurence Sterne. She opened to him also the world of art, of which he knew nothing, for she had not only an interest in painting but a real gift which she was to cultivate in an art school in New York and then sacrifice, as many another talented woman has done, to the career of her husband.

"Wilson the Lover" will be the subject of tomorrow's chapter, in which will be published various extracts from letters he wrote to Ellen Axson, in the midst of his busy pursuit of postgraduate studies at Johns Hopkins.

TELLING THE GLAD TIDINGS OF ENGAGEMENT

chair an exceedingly interesting one). I've fallen in love and become engaged. Yes, it's so: I'm bagged! Indeed, having been engaged already five months, I am beginning to feel quite staid and settled! It is wonderful how literally exact the saying is that one falls in love. I met a certain Miss Ellen Louise Axson, in Rome, Geo., in April, 1883 and by the middle of the following September I was engaged to her! That to decrease enough action for you! Of course it goes without the saying that I am the most complacently happy man in the United States! If you care to listen a moment, I will tell you what the unfortunate lady is like. She is the daughter of a Presbyterian minister—and the granddaughter

Part of Woodrow Wilson's letter to R. Heath Dabney on February 17, 1884, announcing his falling in love and engagement to Miss Ellen Louise Axson (right) whom he met in Rome, Ga., the year before.

KNOWS HER BALANCES

Ella Libby Eastman has an office in Sanford, Me., where she balances the large and small books of others. She was one of the two women delegates to the sixth annual convention of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants at its recent sessions here.

SUPREME COURT HEARS WILL APPEAL

Argument was heard by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in the appeal of Barbara Rhodes involving her alleged rights as an executor of a $100,000 estate left by the late Margaret J. McKallip of Bellevue.

When the McKallip case came up in Orphans' Court the estate left in trust to Hermann L. Grote and the Pittsburg Trust Company two executors named in the will, the court ordered distribution to them, these having been named in a codicil. These were held to replace Louis J. Schoenberger, Grote and Barbara Rhodes. Schoenberger died before Mrs. McKallip. The name of Barbara Rhodes was ordered stricken out, hence the appeal.

The income of the estate to the extent of $200 a month was given to a sister Mrs. Martha Johnson Crow, during her lifetime and the remainder to three nieces, Josephine, Margaret and Sarah Johnson, daughters of William Cooper Johnson of New York. At their death the money is to be distributed among a number of charitable institutions.

Arguments also were heard in the case of Annie McSorley against the School District of the Borough of Avalon, where the borough is appealing a verdict granted Mrs. McSorley for damages awarded her for property condemned by the school district.

The School District of Avalon condemned certain improved property on California avenue in the Borough of Avalon, which property was owned by Mrs. McSorley. The ground was to be used for a new high school building.

Viewers awarded Mrs. McSorley $29,500 for damages, which the Borough of Avalon considered a fair and reasonable price for the property. Mrs. McSorley filed an appeal from the board of viewers, and a Common Pleas Court jury returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. McSorley for $11,406.31. The School District's motion for a new trial was refused. The borough appealed the case to the Supreme Court.

PASTOR'S NAME LINKED WITH GIRL'S; HE SUES

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 6.—An alleged "affair" between the Rev. J. C. Beahm, 55-year-old pastor and school teacher, and his 15-year-old former pupil, Margaret Kalp, will be aired in Common Pleas Court here in testimony in a $30,000 damage suit filed by Beahm against John Kalp, father of the girl.

Kalp, a prominent school director of Jones Mills, where Beahm formerly was a teacher, circulated false stories of Beahm's relations with the girl throughout the town and before the ministerial board of the Church of the Brethren, in which Beahm holds a pastorate at Indian Creek, this county, it is charged.

REFUSED SCHOOL POST

The ministerial board took no action in the matter, but the Jones Mills school board turned down Beahm's application for re-election as a school teacher, although he was able to secure a similar position at Donegal.

Beahm declares the charges are as a result of ill feeling which, he says, developed after he had chastised Kalp's son, also a pupil in the Jones Mills School.

Kalp is said to have declared himself ready to prove his assertions with letters written by Beahm to the girl. He is said to have presented affidavits in the case when he appeared before the ministerial board.

Rum King Kills Wife

By International News Service.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—Climaxing several years of domestic strife and litigation with his wife, Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, 38, George Remus, who gained nation-wide notoriety as "King of the Bootleggers," pulled his wife from a taxicab in Eden Park here today, shot and fatally wounded her, then surrendered to police. Mrs. Remus died at 10:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Remus was en route to the Court of Domestic Relations, where a decision on the Remus divorce proceedings was to have been rendered today. Mrs. Remus and her 19-year-old daughter, Ruth, were riding through Eden Park from their apartment hotel to the court. Mrs. Remus, it is said, espied her husband and his chauffeur pursuing them and she warned the taxi driver.

Remus, according to Ruth, leaped from his machine, screaming curses and abuse at his wife, seized her as she attempted to flee after he had jerked her from the taxi and shot her through the body. Then he jumped into his own machine and fled from the scene. Later he surrendered.

Jaworski's Sister Held

DETROIT, Oct. 6.—(AP.)—Lucille Jaworski, 24, sister of Paul Jaworski, who shot his way out of the Allegheny county jail at Pittsburgh last August, was arrested last night, suspected as the woman who assisted Jaworski to escape.

The detectives admitted they have no definite evidence against her, but will send her photograph to Pittsburgh for possible identification.

Sam, brother of Jaworski, also under arrest here, has been identified as the man who handed pistols to Jaworski and another convicted murderer as they staged the jail break. He is held here pending efforts to extradite him to Pittsburgh.

The Pirates played the second game of their world series against the Yankees today without their president and employer being among the spectators. President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburgh Club, was not present at today's game, remaining away to attend Yom Kippur services.

DR. GRIGGS GIVES SECOND LECTURE ON SHAKESPEARE

Dr. Edward Howard Griggs will give the second of his series of Shakespearian lectures tonight in the North Side Music Hall, under the auspices of the Phoebe Brashear Club. His subject will be "The Ethical Awakening—The Merchant of Venice."

JEWS OBSERVE YOM KIPPUR

Pittsburgh Jewry today is solemnly observing the most impressive of all Hebrew holidays, that of Yom Kippur. Fasting and prayer in synagogues and homes mark the period from sundown yesterday until sundown today, and all secular activity is abandoned by adherents of the faith, in both the orthodox and reformed ranks of the people. Scores of business houses were closed during the period of worship.

The ceremonies attendant upon the "Day of Atonement," as Yom Kippur is termed, are given over largely to prayers for forgiveness for errors committed in the past year, and the healing of breaches between friends because of misunderstandings or personal quarrels.

Sally's Shoulders

ENGROSSING DIFFERENT LIVELY DRAMATIC

By BEATRICE BURTON

Mabel Hopes to Get House For Her Little Family; Sally Assists Her

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

SALLY JEROME is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who does not live with her mother. MRS. JEROME enjoys ill health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work afternoons. BEAU and MILLIE, her brother and sister, give so little toward the support of the home that the whole burden falls on Sally. TED SLOAN is in love with Sally and wants her to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, who is Millie's employer. He is blindly infatuated with Millie, who prefers a bond salesman named DAVIDSON, although she says she is willing to settle down and marry Nye and his money when her affection for Davidson cools off. Millie's love affairs always do end in coolness. Beau begins to run around with a flapper whom he has picked up, and Mabel makes up her mind to leave her new baby in Sally's care and go to work to furnish a home of their own that Beau will have to support. While she is looking for a position, Millie comes home with the news that she has "walked out" on John Nye, and hints that he has insulted her, as several of her former employers had insulted her with their attentions. Sally believes her until one morning when Mabel, who has gone to work for Nye, asks ...y to take her place in his office that day while she hunts ...t. She starts to tell Sally why Millie really quit her job.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE put her head to one side with a wise little smile on her lips. "That's the worst of men, Sally. They change," she said. "Look at Beau! A year ago he was so wild about me that he didn't know where he was, and now he's all tangled up with a flapper who rouges her knees and uses vanilla for perfume!" She sighed deeply and started out of the room with her baby's morning bottle in her hand.

"Thanks ever so much for going to the office today," she called over her shoulder. "It means a lot to me to get Beau out of this house and into a place of our own."

Then she came back and stood on the threshold for one last word.

"I'd like to keep on working for a while after Beau and I get settled, Sally. I'd like to be free evenings, too, so that he and I could go out and have some fun for a change. So I thought maybe I'd leave the baby with you for a while. That's all right, isn't it?"

Sally thought hard for a minute. She wondered what Aunt Em would have to say to that. Her father would be here, too, as well as the baby. And then there was Mrs. Jerome—three helpless people in the house.

"I think it will be all right, Mabey," she answered, slowly.

But she wondered how she was going to manage all of the work in the restaurant, and the dancing every night, six nights a week, and the baby, besides Mr. and Mrs. Jerome.

"I'm going to feel like a juggler—keeping six balls in the air at once," she told herself cheerfully, as she set out in the cool, crisp morning air.

The sunshine made her lighthearted in spite of all the problems at home—in spite of the problem ahead of her. The problem of facing John Nye that morning. What would she say to him? She wondered if he still remembered the night when he had found her in Ted Sloan's arms.

"Still, that's none of his business—what Ted and I do," she told herself on her way to the top floor of the building in the elevator.

"He probably thinks we're engaged, anyhow," she went on thinking, marching lightly along the familiar white marble corridor.

She wondered what he would say if he knew that she had nothing more than a luke-warm liking for Ted Sloan, and that she had been in love with him for a year now.

She opened the door of his office, and, with her heart thumping like a trip-hammer in her bosom, she stepped inside.

Miss Kress peered up at her with her near-sighted eyes and then gave her small, pinched smile. "Well, if it isn't Miss Jerome!" she cried in a thin, high-pitched voice that somehow seemed to match her spare figure and flat chest and watery, red-rimmed eyes. "We seem to get your whole family here, little by little, don't we?"

"I came down to take my sister-in-law's place today," answered Sally, stiffly. "Shall I tell Mr. Nye I'm here—or will you?"

As she spoke the buzzer sounded from John Nye's office, and Miss Kress jumped up like a Jack-in-the-box and hurried jerkily in to him. There was a high flush on Miss Kress' sharp cheek bones. A tell-tale flush. . . . It was painfully clear that Miss Kress was in love with her handsome "boss."

In a moment she reappeared. "Mr. Nye wants to give some dictation to you," she said in quivering tones, and unlocked the desk that had been Millie's desk and later Mabel's desk.

Armed with her pad and pencil and an air of calm detachment, Sally stepped into the private office. Nothing could have been more indifferent than Sally's blue eyes at that moment, nothing more indifferent than her cool "Good morning, Mr. Nye." It was perfect. A fine piece of acting.

She sat down at the corner of the desk, thinking of the morning she had put a glass of flowers there for him—of the evening when she had brought a plateful of sandwiches and laid them down there before him.

Remembering how he had laughed to Millie about these small deeds of kindness, she looked him straight in the eye and stolidly waited for him to begin.

"I'm sorry Mrs. Jerome isn't well today," he said, and Sally's expression never softened. She might have been Aunt Em telling a book agent to get away from her front door, for all the sweetness that was in her face at that moment.

"She's not ill. She wanted to take the day off to go house-hunting. That's why I'm here," answered Sally, in most un-Sally-like tones. "I couldn't spare the time to come, but she asked me to, so I did."

John Nye stared at her a full moment longer. He took in the straight line of the mouth and the determined set of the little chin. This was a Sally he did not know, his eyes said as plainly as words.

But Sally wasn't looking at him. Her eyes were on the glass top of his desk.

Suddenly she saw his lean, fine hand reach out and touch the electric bell at the edge—the bell that he used to summon the adoring Miss Kress to his office.

The door opened and she stepped inside, blinking.

"Yes, Mr. Nye?" she asked breathlessly, her pink nose going up and down like a rabbit's.

"Miss Jerome ought not to take the time to be here today," he said coldly, and Sally gasped. "I think we can get along without her, don't you?"

Sally opened her soft lips to speak and then closed them again, as she saw the look on his face. It was a hard, cold, tight-lipped sort of expression.

She got up before Miss Kress had time to do more than nod her head, with its crown of carroty red hair, all frizzled as if it had been curled on a red-hot poker.

"Thanks, Mr. Nye," said Sally, her proud little head held very high. "I really can't spare you any time. Goodby."

Ten minutes later she was on the street car, bound for home, with a very sore heart under the crisp, white blouse that she wore. She felt that in some unaccountable way she and John Nye had gradually become bitter enemies. Just how and why she did not know.

"Maybe he hates me because he hates Millie and I'm her sister," she said to herself.

And yet he had given a position to Mabel, who was Millie's sister-in-law. It was all very puzzling.

That night Millie went out for supper all by herself. Mabel and Beau took the baby for a drive in the red car, which had been patched together most miraculously.

And so Sally had a great deal of time to herself, for a great change. She took her time in dressing, and the result was fetching.

"I look—nice," she told herself, standing before the mirror in her room in the blue-and-silver dancing dress.

"Nice" was a poor word to describe her. In the blue-and-silver dress Sally's beauty showed up for the lustrous and amazing thing it was, no longer hidden by a bungalow apron, or dimmed by a black office dress.

Her shoulders were her greatest beauty, and they rose like velvet from the low-cut satin. The tiny bit of make-up that she had to use under the bright lights of Aunt Em's dining room brought out the beautiful curve of her lips and the brilliance of her eyes.

She had never looked lovelier in her life than she looked that night when she started downstairs at 8 o'clock and saw John Nye standing in a group of people in the wide lower hall.

CHAPTER IV.

SALLY stopped dead still on the stairs.

A sudden fear went thrilling through her—fear that John Nye would look up all at once and see her standing there in her dancing dress, with the little blue mask half covering her face.

For Sally had come to the place where she was deeply ashamed of her nightly exhibition dance on the polished floor of Aunt Emily's dining room.

To begin with, she had not been the least bit ashamed of dancing in public. She had been shy, but not ashamed at all. She had started out by being as natural as a child that dances to the music of a street piano or with its own shadow in the sunlight.

Then Aunt Em had told her "shimmying" was a sight and a disgrace.

Next Mrs. Jerome had wept about it, and hunted up the old satin mask to hide her shame, as she put it.

Then, last of all, Ted Sloan had confessed that he was ashamed of making "a holy show" on the dance floor with her six nights a week.

It was no wonder that Sally's face grew hot and scarlet under its mask as she stood there on the wide steps, looking down into the hall below, and that she stepped quickly back into the shadow of the landing halfway up the flight.

"If John should see me!" she gasped inwardly, one hand on her breast where she could feel her heart beating away with all its might and main, not to mention speed.

Panic-stricken, she turned and flew up the stairs to her room. With the door safely locked, she stripped off the blue-and-silver dress, wiped the paint from her face, kicked off the satin slippers.

Five minutes later a very demure Sally slipped down the back stairs of the big house, enveloped in a clean, white bungalow apron.

"Where's our own Gilda Gray tonight?" asked Aunt Emily, puzzled, as she took her place behind the white enameled table and began to help Hilda, the new little waitress, put salads together expertly.

"Our own Gilda Gray decided not to do her stuff tonight," answered the girl, trying to seem off hand about it.

"Don't you feel well?" asked Aunt Em, as she gave her a searching glance that took her in from head to foot.

"Never felt better since Hector was a pup!" Sally went on, with blithe slanginess. She certainly never had looked better.

"Well, then, what's the big idea of staying out here in the kitchen?" her aunt went on. When she set her mind to finding something out, she went right to the bottom of things. A diamond drill was nothing to be compared to her, when it came to digging up the truth.

"Well, if you must know," Sally finally blurted out, "John Nye is here tonight—and I don't want to dance in front of him!"

"Ho—hum!" Aunt Em was thoughtful. "So that's the way the wind blows, is it? Well, I've thought that right along."

Sally knew she had thought she was in love with John ever since that long-ago day, almost a year before, when John Nye had come to the house to take Millie for a drive. She said nothing, but went calmly on piling lettuce leaf upon lettuce leaf, and scooping out a hollow in the tomatoes before her on the table.

"Set those salads on the serving table in the dining room," commanded Aunt Em, when the last of them was finished and topped off by a spoonful of fluffy salad dressing.

But Sally shook her lovely, dark head. "Oh, no! Not me, Aunt Em!" she cried, with determination in the very ring of her voice. "I'd have to be dragged by the hair of my head into that dining room tonight! I'm not going anywhere near John Nye and his crowd. Not a chance!"

With an outraged snort, Aunt Em piled a tray with salads and bore them off to the dining room at high speed.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

HELLO DANCING MEN, AND HOW NOW THIS MORNING?
SHALL WE INSPECT THE KENNELS?
AFTER THAT CROWD AT THE DANCE LAST NIGHT
THE WAY THEY STEPPED ON ME, I'VE GOT ALL THE "DOGS" I WANT RIGHT HERE!

"My dear, I simply MUST tell you something AWfully aMUsing! You reMEMber this strange HOUSE party that ARab and I and NOisy sort of atTENded on MESS, as it were? Well, the morning after one of these odd BRAWLS which they were throwing practically every NIGHT, I sort of disCOVered ARab and NOisy looking terribly SUNK, sort of. I mean they BOTH looked as if they were on the VERGE of collAPSE, no less. So I sort of sugGESted a little light WALKing at this point because I was honestly MAD to see these KENnel effects which these MeTAVish's have at this simply tiTANic country place where they gave this HOUSE party, you see, and I thought it would be a SWELL idea for us to sort of BARGE to look at them because, anyways, my dear, I think ANimals are SIMply FAScinating, all except SNAKES which SIMply TERrify me because I mean I honestly LOATHE everything WRIGgly except SPEARmint—can you BEAR it? But, anyways, my dear, that pun is not NEARly so wet as the one ARab made when I suggested we take a look at these KENnels, because he remarked when I suggested looking at them that the way everybody had been TREADing casually on his FEET at this PARty the night before, his OWN 'DOGS' int'rested him FAR more than any in the MeTAVish KENnels, which I HONestly think is an AWfully SOBbing reMARK—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" — By Adele Garrison

Katie Makes a Discovery Affecting the Two Foreigners

I WAS exceedingly glad that Mrs. Ticer had not longer delayed her departure when I scanned Katie's excited face. My little maid evidently was wrought up to so high a pitch that the outlet of speech was as necessary to her as a vent to a steam boiler.

Assuring myself that all doors to the kitchen were closed, I faced the excited girl with a smile.

"I see that you have found something," I said encouragingly.

She gave an hysterical little giggle.

"I'll tell the cock-eyed world I've found out somethings," she said. "Vun dose fellows Transvanian all right, oder bird I don't know. Maybe Irishmans, maybe Englishmans, maybe Americans, but he no Transvanian, und he vun smart devil, dot tall red-headed vun."

"But how could you tell, Katie?" I objected. "They changed to French when I sent you over to the room, and you were talking in such loud tones yourself when you came running into the yard that I do not see how you could have distinguished any other sound."

She tossed her head with a knowing, cock-sure little air.

"Vot you tink I doing before I coom out?" she asked superbly. "I standing shoost inside kitchen door mit mine ears all pooked oop like vater pails ready catch eferyting."

I hoped Katie did not catch the involuntary grimace which accompanied my remembrance of other than less acceptable times when she had applied her "ears like vater pails" to keyholes. I put a swift question:

"And are you sure they were speaking Transylvania?"

"Sure ting. Tink I don't know dot mess of soup-green vords?"—applying her supreme epithet of distaste. "Vun of fellows—short vun—be talking regular vords, trying tell Jeem dot dog got away und no bite eef peoples stand still, no boder heem, und he tell dey goin' lif down here dees summer. But dot tall mans—"

"Do you know vot dot tall mans doing ven he talk?" she demanded.

"No, Katie, I haven't the slightest idea.

"Vell, he no talkin' sense a bit. I don't tink he know mooch Transvanian, und he vos saying ofer und ofer leetle poetry."

"Poetry!" I ejaculated with a feeling that the Mad Hatter surely would be along presently.

"Yah, poetry." Katie patently was enjoying the effect of her story. "You know shoost as eef I didn't know American so goot und vos talking, pretending I knew eet, und ofer and ofer I should say dose tings you used to tell Junior ven he babby like Baa-black sheep und all dose tings. Dot's vot dot fellow vos doing, in Transvanian und making dem sound like qvestions."

My face was an exclamation point of astonishment as she finished and I saw her glance at me with eminent satisfaction. This was Katie's hour, and she was enjoying it to the full.

"Und dot isn't all," she added grandly. "Ven you tell me to cut roses, remember?"

"Yes," I answered a bit impatiently.

"Vell, de tall mans say to do short vuns in Transvanian:

"'Look out, dees a girl knows langvidge. Talk French.'"

I stared at her, frankly bewildered.

"Are you sure you heard him distinctly, Katie?" I asked. "He spoke in such a low tone just before they began talking French that I don't see how you possibly could have understood what he was saying."

"I tell you my ears mooch sharp," Katie answered, and with the reflection that they ought to be if training them at keyholes were any aid to good hearing, I thanked her for her service, and made my way to the front veranda, mulling over the bewildering things she had told me.

WHAT'S the ANSWER?

1. What is the boiling point of water?
2. In what year was Rome founded?
3. Who was the assassin whose deed caused the World War?
4. Is it true that children of young parents are brighter than those of older parents?
5. What is paleoanthropology?
6. What is an abacus?
7. What was the object of the tower of Babel?
8. Who said: "To be prepared for war is one of the most effective means of preserving peace"?
9. What modern country has nearly five times as many sons in the United States as there are in the country itself?
10. What is the difference between a lama and a llama?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. Providence is "short" for Provincia Romana, as the Romans named their earliest conquest in Gaul.
2. It was once the custom in England for a man to present his sweetheart with a hand-carved "love spoon." It is from this old custom that the term "spooning" arose.
3. The finnan haddock got its name because it was first cured at the village of Findon, or Finnan, near Aberdeen.
4. "To be let" is the full phrase. It means "to be permitted," the tenant being permitted to use the premises. This has been corrupted into "To let."
5. A subpena is a document which orders the person named upon it to appear in court on a certain date to give evidence.
6. In the original Greek, "anthology" means "collection of flowers." It is a collection of anything beautiful in literature.
7. A human being has 12 ribs on each side.
8. The owl is regarded as the emblem of wisdom for two reasons; first, because of the solemn, thoughtful look of the bird itself, and second because it was the favorite bird of Minerva, goddess of wisdom.
9. The normal rate of breathing is 18 times a minute.
10. Mussolini's title or "Duce" is a corruption of the Italian word "Duca," which means a duke, commander or chief.

Every Woman

Should Know About This.

It is as much your duty to be attractive as to keep a well-ordered house.

Why shouldn't every girl and woman strive to be attractive? It is not merely vanity; the modest knowledge of pleasant appearance is a mental prop that enhances whatever charms of personality its owner may have.

Let us suggest here, a recently discovered Toilet Accessory known as Mibalm Liquid Vanishing Cream.

Never before has there been offered a toilet preparation which fills such a long-felt want; never have women been so anxious to try a new product and never have they been so well pleased, and acknowledged its superior value over the old style solid vanishing creams.

MIBALM LIQUID VANISHING CREAM is a snow-white lotion, makes an ideal powder base, it is soothing, healing and mildly astringent; you can buy it at all the leading Drug and Department Stores, you can always get it at May's.

Malaga Salad

Two cups seeded Malaga grapes, one cup celery cut in small pieces, one cup tart apple, diced; one-half cup English walnuts broken in small pieces.

Marinate the ingredients with French dressing. Serve in lettuce cups. Garnish with marschino cherries. Serve with a cream mayonnaise dressing.

Catawba Frappe

One quart Catawba grapes, two cups sugar, three cups water, juice of two lemons.

Remove grapes from stems. Add cold water, cook for 10 minutes; press through a sieve. Add sugar and boil for five minutes. Cool, add the lemon juice and freeze to a mush.

Why work so hard on washday?

—Try this "no scrub" way

NO hard rubbing this way. No boiling, even, to heat the kitchen and waste fuel. Just soak and rinse for the whitest, brightest wash ever!

The difference is all in the soap. Use Rinso, and clothes soak whiter than you could scrub them. Millions prove it every week. The makers of 30 leading washing machines endorse Rinso for safety, and for a whiter wash.

Rinso gives thick suds even in hard water. Rich, creamy suds — not frothy soap bubbles. So easy on the hands.

Easy on the clothes, too. They aren't scrubbed thin the gentle Rinso way.

You'll say there's nothing like Rinso, once you've tried it. Why not this next washday. Get it today.

ELINOR GLYN tells the TRUTH about

Good Manners

WHAT are good manners? Good manners are those speeches and actions which are conducted with consideration for the rest of the community and for the individual; so that it—or he—may be in no way offended, inconvenienced or hurt.

ELINOR GLYN

Good manners are the outcome of civilization, the stamp of good breeding and knowledge of life. Therefore, they are more likely to be encountered in old countries than in new ones, among old nations than among new nations where tradition does not operate, and where necessity and struggle for existence has been so extreme that it has not left time for "the graces" to develop.

Unselfish people are seldom ill-mannered in any country, for they are filled with consideration for others. But as selfishness is so marked an attribute in the modern young man and woman, ill manners seem to be on the increase and are a great blot on this glorious country of America. The uncouth rudeness you encounter in shops, in the subway, in street cars, in the post offices! All quite unnecessary, too. Politeness will secure consideration much sooner!

Remember, if you do not teach children to be polite and considerate, you are only stamping them with the stamp of ill breeding and thoughtless home surroundings which will hamper their careers for the rest of their lives. Real pride and good breeding should show by never stooping to be rude. It is an upstart and plebeian quality.

End Fat

The way is now easy and pleasant

Anybody who suffers from excess fat should learn what modern science offers. Don't starve, don't over-exercise. Combat the real cause. Supply your system with that which turns food into fuel and energy rather than into fat.

Modern research discovered that way some two decades ago. It was then embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Today the results are seen and told everywhere. Most people are slender. All modern styles are adapted to them. They have supplied their systems with the natural factors which prevent the formation of fat.

Users of Marmola do not attempt abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. They simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. New vivacity, new health comes at the same time.

The methods are not secret. Each box of Marmola contains the formula and the reasons for results. You know what you are taking, and the scientific reasons for the benefits which come.

Start Marmola now. You cannot afford to stay fat. Beauty, health and fitness require normal weight. Watch the results for a month, and they will delight you. Then tell the facts to others. Why wait another day?

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

GRAY'S EXPENSE GREATEST IN PRIMARY

An expenditure of $16,542.32 by Judge James H. Gray, independent judicial candidate, tops the list of campaign expenditures in the recent primary, according to statements filed.

Judge Richard Martin came second with $10,608 expended.

From this point expenditures dropped abruptly to Judge Frank I. Gollmar, with $2,385.70; County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, with $3,784.45; District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, with $2,162, toward which George W. Murren, chief of county detectives, contributed $76 and each member of the county detective force gave $53.

Samuel D. Foster, candidate for county treasurer, spent $2,093.45; John Vogt, candidate for prothonotary, spent $1,699.85, and Edward C. Chalfant, $2,783.13.

J. Clyde Miller, candidate for director of the poor, expended $1,151.75.

Walter L. Henderson, candidate for director of the poor, reported expenditures of $2,765.

S. J. Topley, candidate for clerk of courts, reported expenditures of $2,171.

George B. Shields, candidate for clerk of courts, reported expenditures totaling $753.47.

David L. Lawrence, treasurer of the Democratic directors of the poor campaign, reported expenditures of $630.

P. F. Casey, candidate for alderman of the Fourteenth Ward, reported less than $50 spent. K. W. Huth, his treasurer, reported expenditures of $1,200.

SCARLET FEVER CLOSES NINEVEH PUBLIC SCHOOLS

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 6.—Public schools at Nineveh, nine miles west of here, were ordered closed today when three cases of scarlet fever were reported. The schools at Graysville have been closed for two weeks on account of the disease. Two cases are under quarantine in Waynesburg.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

LEAVES FOR COLLEGE

MISS KATHERINE JAMES

Miss Katherine James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. James, of Locust street, Edgewood, has left to attend Wellesley College.

FORTNIGHTLY REVIEW HONORS PRESIDENT

The beautiful home of Mrs. Paul J. Bolger in Washington road made an ideal setting for the president's day meeting of the Woman's Fortnightly Review of Mt. Lebanon which was held yesterday in honor of Mrs. J. C. Downs. There was a large attendance, among the guests being many visitors from other clubs. Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky represented the Congress of Clubs, of which she is president, and Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston the State Federation. A program that was greatly enjoyed was presented by Reed Kennedy, tenor, and Earl Mitchell, pianist and accompanist. The decorations were particularly lovely and were carried out in the club colors, blue and gold. On the tea table, where Mrs. John McKelvie and Mrs. Ralph Radacliffe presided, was a centerpiece of calendula and delphinium.

Mrs. R. T. Charters, chairman of the program committee, sketched the good things which the year will hold for the members, among these being papers by the women themselves and addresses and music by visitors. "The Evolution of the American Home," as the topic for the first program day, will produce papers on "The Simple Life of the Revolutionary Homes," "The Mid-Victorian Age," "The Naughty Nineties" and "The Super-Efficient Home of '27." "The Story of Your Walls," "Oriental Rugs" and "The Lure of the Antique" will engage the interest at the first November meeting, the second meeting having Dr. Mary H. Harris to speak on "Home Economics in the Federal Institution for Women." The advantages and handicaps of youth will be discussed later, and then there will be the Christmas party, which is always an especially happy occasion with the Fortnightly. The new year will introduce Miss Susan T. Canfield, who will tell the women "How to Listen to Music," and this meeting will be followed by a musicale. Next will come "Poetry and Art," then the annual luncheon and a discussion of "The Neighbors." "Others" is the significant topic for March 7, when the program will be given by Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, one of Pittsburgh's favorite readers, and Miss Alta Schultz, of the velvet voice. Gardens will be variously discussed at two meetings, for one of which Mrs. J. H. McFate will be the speaker, and then, to complete the circle, there will be a program on "The Home as a Unit of the Government" and one on "The Home Library," the annual dinner for the "husbands fat and husbands thinner" and the annual business meeting. At the close of the year book's program pages stands a flash of humor, for there the program committee has indited the line from Kipling's "Le 'Envoi'—"We shall rest, and faith, we shall need it."

"History in the Making" is the interesting subject selected by the Woman's Literary Club of Bellevue for study this season and in the new year books are announced sub-topics that promise a season of more than ordinary worth. A few of these which will be given in papers by the members are "The Application of the Monroe Doctrine, "Carribean Imperialism," "What About the Philippines?" "New Plans for the Old World," "China for the Chines," "The Turning Point in History," "British Political Parties," "What Germany Is Doing," "Mussolini," "Causes and Cures of War," "The New Map of Europe," and "Disarmament Conferences." Current events will also be made a part of each day's program and four events will deviate slightly from the usual program sessions. The first of these is a visit to the international art exhibit; another will be a guest day at which Dr. N. A. N. Clevon of Pitt will speak; the third will be the Christmas party and the last a debate on "Resolved, That the Economic and Moral Benefits of the Eighteenth Amendment Fully Justified its Passage." The club opened its season Tuesday with a reception in honor of the president, Mrs. J. L. Hukill, in the home of Mrs. L. A. Hubach.

President's day held yesterday in the Faculty clubrooms inaugurated the season's activities for the Women's Club of Carnegie Institute of Technology. Mrs. Robert H. Leighou, the new president, received with Mrs. Frank M. McCullough, last year's president, and the other officers, Mrs. J. C. Morehead, Miss Elizabeth Helm, Mrs. H. Kloman Schmidt, Mrs. George E. A. Fairley, Mrs. William H. Michener and Mrs. William T. Crandell. A musical program included contralto solos by Miss Virginia Clovis, soprano solos by Miss Lucille Hough, violin duets by Miss Helen Foster and Miss Katherine Rickert and vocal duets by Miss Hough and Miss Clovis. Hostesses were Mrs. J. H. James, Mrs. Norman C. Riggs, Mrs. William F. Kamman, Mrs. Everett Warner, Mrs. Max Schoen and Mrs. John D. Beatty. Mrs. James M. Graham, Jr., and Mrs. Harry S. Hower poured.

In the home of Mrs. Charles R. Foster, at the State Teachers' College, Indiana, the Wednesday Literary Club of the North Side began its twenty-fifth year and celebrated president's day yesterday. Mrs. Arthur Bigelow made her farewell address as retiring president and introduced her successor, Miss Grace Smith. Mrs. Charles Fulton reviewed the work of the club and commented on the study outlined for this year on Switzerland, current events and several special topics.

The Woman's Club of Mt. Lebanon announces the opening of its different departments as follows: The literary department at the home of Mrs. I. G. Amsler, Friday; dramatic department at the home of the chairman, Mrs. C. A. Stout, Martin avenue, October 17; music department at the home of the chairman, Mrs. J. T. Moon, Coolidge avenue, October 14; garden department, October 12, at the home of the chairman, Mrs. W. L. Williams, Jr., McCully street.

Mrs. Mark W. McGaffey will speak concerning "Friendship Hill" and a musical program will be presented by Miss Julia Dohrman Mayer, soprano, and Mrs. Ruth Bowers Gibson at the anniversary luncheon of the Women's Historical Society next Monday in the Congress of Clubs. Miss Cathryn Sharrar will be accompanist.

* * *

Mrs. E. W. Reiger, of Lincoln avenue, Crafton, will be hostess next week for the meeting of the Wednesday Club of Pittsburgh. Mrs. R. E. Somers will discuss "The New Art" and Mrs. R. E. West will speak on "Art Education."

* * *

The first of the noon-day Bible class meetings which are being planned by Central Branch, Young Women's Christian Association, women and girls will meet tomorrow in the Downtown Y. M. C. A., Third avenue and Wood streets. Luncheon may be procured in the cafeteria and taken to the adjoining room, where the meeting is to be held. Miss Mae Davidson, director of education at Central Branch, Y. W. C. A., will be the leader of the group which will meet from 12 to 1, with the class period from 12:30 to 12:55.

The executive board members will serve as hostesses for the opening meeting and president's day of the New England Colony at the College Club next Monday. Music will be furnished by Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Dodds, pianist; Miss Marie Kleyle, violinist, and Miss Dorothy Trombley, 'cellist.

The Young People's Branch of the Pittsburgh Presbytery will hold a rally for all the children's missionary societies in the district on Saturday, October 15, in the Third Church, Fifth and Negley avenues. The Rev. Ralph Waldo Lloyd will speak and Mrs. C. C. Brinton will be in charge.

* * *

Syria Ladies' Social Club will entertain with a dance and card party at Syria Mosque Monday evening. Mrs. John Johns is chairman of prizes; Mrs. J. Lee Owens, of publicity, and Mrs. Charles H. Brautigan and Mrs. John Dean are in charge of the dance and cards.

* * *

The annual tag day for the Suburban General Hospital will be held in the North Boroughs Saturday under auspices of the Ladies' Advisory Board.

Dull, listless, out of sorts, feeling half-sick

IS it a cold coming on? Is it over-eating or what can it be? Probably it is Nature warning that your system is not functioning properly.

When you feel this way you should follow the treatment that has helped many, many other people. Even two weeks of it will make a difference in the way you feel.

A prominent New York physician says, "When my patients have that dull half-sick feeling I always prescribe Nujol and recommend at least two weeks' continued usage. Why? Because Nujol absorbs and clears away the toxic intestinal poisons that in most cases are the cause of the trouble. Further, Nujol is absolutely harmless and can be taken by young babies or old people."

Not like medicine

Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. It's a natural substance unlike anything else. Can't hurt you. Others have benefited from taking it, why not you?

This remarkable product is sold all over the world. Go to any druggist, get a bottle of Nujol and see for yourself what it will do. Only—don't delay. Do it now. Insist on the real Nujol. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

The juice of 25 cherries

That tart, tangy fresh cherry flavor—you can't mistake it even blindfolded, for the actual juice of 25 perfect ripe cherries flavors every package of Royal Cherry Gelatin.

You will like it for its quivering tenderness—because it whips like heavy cream, because it has not the slightest trace of gummy odor or taste. You would expect this superiority of texture and flavor of a product made by the makers of Royal Baking Powder. Yet it costs no more.

Children adore Royal Cherry Gelatin plain or whipped or molded with fruit. Four other fresh fruit flavors: Raspberry, Strawberry, Orange and Lemon.

Mother Requests School Ban Silk Hose

ADENA, O., Oct. 6.—Local school authorities have been asked to bar silk stockings for pupils. A mother of four girls wrote asking the superintendent to refuse admission to girls wearing the more expensive hose, asserting she was unable to provide similar stockings for her daughters, who said they would not go to school if they could not dress as well as other girls.

Six Series Scalpers Draw Light Fines

Five of the eleven alleged ticket scalpers arrested yesterday and another taken into custody today were fined this morning at hearings before Magistrate Soost in the Oakland Police Station. Hearings for six were postponed in deference to their faith and Yom Kippur, Jewish Day of Atonement, which prevented their appearance today.

Those given hearings, it developed, were only the garden variety of ticket scalpers, dealing merely in general admission or $1.10 tickets. Their fines ranged from $5 to $25 each, in contrast with the $100 penalties meted out to the reserved seat scalpers who had hearings yesterday.

Emanuel McPherson, 28, Negro, of 216 Sixth avenue, Homestead, fared the worst with a fine of $25. Michael Wassel, 21, of 453 Fourth avenue, Homestead; William Brand, 24, of 326 Dinwiddie street; Michael Baron, 21, of 234 Cherry way, and Edward Smith, 24, of 2710 Sarah street, were fined $10 each. A. Miller, 28, of 2849 Sarah street, was fined $5. They were charged with violating a city ordinance.

Those whose hearings were held over are Clarence Beck, 31, of 2202 Perrysville avenue; Henry Marshall, 28, of 2218 Bedford avenue; Oscar Glassman, 24, and Joseph Glassman, 28, of Philadelphia; Robert Barrett, 25, of "city," and Hyman Labelle, 25, of 631 Chislett street.

Infantile Paralysis

MOTHERS!

Learn how to guard your dear little ones against this terrible disease

Nobody knows where infantile paralysis comes from. It seems to spring from nowhere, and it marks out for its victims little children who are unable to defend themselves. Right now newspapers are reporting increasing epidemics of infantile paralysis throughout the nation. It is a germ disease, and the germs, in some manner, are spread from one child to another.

The favorite place for germs to enter the system is through the mouth. So the place to destroy the germs is while they are in the mouth. Nothing destroys germs so quickly as GERM-ORAL. Thousands use it daily—finding it the only absolute protection against disease. It maintains a constant condition of cleanness and sweetness of the mouth, besides preserving the health of throat, gums and teeth.

GERM-ORAL is the most powerful mouth antiseptic known to Medical Science, yet it is absolutely safe and pleasant for the tender mouths of little children. It leaves a cool, refreshing, pleasant taste.

Isn't it wiser to use GERM-ORAL than to have your children run the risk of catching disease? Go today to your druggist and get a bottle of GERM-ORAL. Just a simple swabbing of children's mouths night and morning with this scientific mouth antiseptic avoids disease dangers and relieves you of worry. GERM-ORAL is extremely economical. Just a few drops to a half glass of hot water is sufficient. If inconvenient to buy at the drug store, send 75c to Hollander Bros. Drug Co., Rankin, Pa., Dept. 56-T.

ELECTION PROBE WIDENS TO COUNTY

The Allegheny County Elections' Association, hitherto a passive factor in primary election fraud prosecutions, went into direct action today, promising 15 criminal informations and a new field of investigation.

Evidence on which to base the informations against elections officials of three districts will be placed in the hands of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner during the day, officials of the association said. This will bring the total number of election boards involved in such procedures up to 23 and the total number of persons against whom charges have been made up to 115.

Officials of the association indicated their activity would concern territory outside the city proper, so far affected only in scattered spots by the probe.

New charges also were added to the record of accusations in the primary cases today by Thomas MacDonald, investigator for the Pennsylvania Elections Association. He declared that "counterfeit" ballots had been found in the Nineteenth District, Tenth Ward. These "counterfeits," he explained, were specimen ballots from the Fourth District, Tenth Ward. Thirteen specimen ballots from the Nineteenth District also were found, he said, and all were ordered thrown out.

So far the major changes in the tabulations effected by the recount have been in the judicial slate. A few have shown discrepancies in the figures for county controller and county commissioners.

The question of whether election board officials against whom criminal proceedings have been instituted may serve at the election in November was answered in the affirmative by MacDonald today, who said that until the cases are heard the men must be presumed innocent and therefore would be eligible for service.

ARMSTRONG POSTOFFICE THEFT SUSPECTS JAILED

William C. Mackey, 27, and George C. McGinnis, 23, who on September 23 are said to have broken into the Kaylor, Armstrong county, postoffice, were committed to jail today. They are alleged to have carried a small safe half a mile, where they looted it of postal money orders and $60.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHY NOT A "LOVE WEEK?"

THERE ought to be a "Love Week."

* * *

"Apple Week," "Safety-first Week" and "Fire-Prevention Week" may have their points. But what this old world needs is some miracle to rekindle the dead spark of romance and revive the tender passion from its present state of apathy.

* * *

A whole week, in which every husband would stop long enough to tell his wife that he still loved her, and nobody would kiss anybody except for love, and petting parties would be taboo! Wouldn't that be grand and glorious—for the women!

HELEN ROWLAND

Now that sex-appeal is becoming almost as plentiful and commonplace as cold-slaw and stewed prunes, men seem to be growing SO weary of women!

They are SO tired of being pursued, chased, nabbed and run down, that they almost yawn at the sight of a new girl.

They are so tired of looking at legs, knees and the female form divine in a bathing-suit, that no woman's charms have any more lure or glamour for them than a shop-window full of hosiery.

They are so sick of promiscuous kissing that a caress is more of a duty than a privilege or a pleasure; and a "petting party" is about as thrilling as a potato race.

Once love was either the essence of purity or the triple extract of sin—but now it is just a plain drink of lukewarm water.

* * *

Once love was a divine insanity—but now it is just common or garden inanity.

Once love was a temptation—but now it is just a visitation!

Women fall so easily for a man's love-making that half the time he does not trouble to catch them.

* * *

Never were women so lightly held or so indifferently treated as they are today.

Oh yes, what we need is a "Love Week." For love, after all, is the motif of life, the inspiration of all its beauty, poetry and creative art.

Love leaves star-dust on all that it touches and makes the thoughts sparkle and the mind glow.

Love is every woman's birthright—which she is foolishly exchanging for a "mess of potage."

Modes, manners and moral standards may change—but you never can change the nature of man. At heart he will always be a pursuer and an adventurer. And what he longs for is Big Game, not tame pigeons.

Fay King Tells What Expression Girls Need

By FAY KING

WOMEN have never been more alert than they are lately to improve themselves.

The shop girl of today is as well groomed as the society bud and one sees as smartly dressed girls in the tiniest town as they see on Fifth avenue.

The movies have done a great deal to promote this inspiration, and where the movies leave off the advertisements begin.

But after a girl has selected her style of dress, her kind of bob, and made her choice between deep or pale nail polish, and even cultivated her speaking voice, there remains still an important factor for her to consider:

The expression she will wear!

The expression is very important also.

Now it is well to go into this factor and weigh it carefully, and since no matter what she may say a woman's chief interest is to appear favorable in the eyes of men, let her note carefully the expression that seems to be most popular with men!

The three most popular seem to me to be the snappy defiant expression or the dreamy love-like expression, but the most popular of all is the startled-fawn expression.

I do not mention the laughing girl, for all serious-expressioned misses can seem the same when in a mood of fun, and the girl who is always laughing is not taken seriously where romance is concerned.

The giggling girl who is always a-twinkle may be popular, but she is rarely adored as deeply as the more serious ones.

Note the stage and screen stars that are most popular with men and you will find that invariably they have that startled fawn expression—a look of half fear on the verge of tears.

It is even more popular than the baby stare.

You're in luck if you can look that way!

Friendship Marriages

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"WHAT a beautiful wedding!"

"A wonderful match!"

"A very safe marriage!"

"Surely there never was a couple so well suited to each other!"

These and similar comments were heard on all sides at a certain lovely June wedding, when two good pals, who had been school and college friends, were united in marriage.

Jack and Edna were leaders in their "crowd." Both were much admired and loved.

When they started on their honeymoon amid showers of rice and laughing good wishes, everyone felt that the occasion was the beginning of a happy "forever after" for the newlyweds.

Five years have passed since that summer afternoon. Today's paper announces a Paris divorce granted Edna from Jack. The item is not news to friends of the couple. For the past year or two they have suspected all was not well with the marriage from which so much was expected.

The fact is, Edna was never in love with Jack. She loved him as an old friend—but that was all.

Jack was devoted to Edna even as a schoolday chum. The two were always together. Their families wished and expected the marriage. It was taken for granted they were engaged long before a betrothal actually existed.

Jack could give Edna every luxury. Her family were poor. How natural, under all the circumstances, that she should drift into this marriage of convenience and friendship.

Jack adored his wife. And for several years she was placidly happy. Then she learned what love at its most intense can mean. She fell in love with another man.

Her love was fully returned. Jack, too unselfish to stand in the way of what Edna was convinced meant her only chance of happiness, permitted the divorce. He is tragically broken-hearted. Edna is still fond of the man she divorced. But she could not resist the call of all-compelling love and she is planning to marry again within a few months.

Love is natural, inevitable to youth. Do not enter into a loveless marriage, assuming love will pass you by. For whether you crush an emotion that leads you away from loyalty and duty, or yield, wrecking your marriage and another's happiness, disillusionment and tragedy are sure to follow, when love finds you out, as it must some day.

In other times when marriages were arranged by parents, regardless of the wishes of those most concerned, loveless marriage may have been inevitable. In parts of Europe even today love is not considered part of marriage and marriages of convenience are the rule. But in America, young folks choose their own life partners and marry with the hope of forming a union which shall prove lastingly happy and successful. For that reason, it is unnecessary and disastrous for young people to enter into a marriage where there is not love as well as friendship.

Two dear friends of mine are contemplating a marriage of friendship. Both have married before. Both were bereft by death of a loved life partner. They have turned in middle—the harvest years of life—to each other for the companionship and affectionate friendship both crave. How much better this is than growing old alone, with only sad memories to live for.

Love's intense young dreams is a thing of the past for these two. Neither will expect the impossible of their friendship marriage. But it will mean unselfish service and cheerful companionship and will brighten life for both. Under these circumstances the friendship marriage should prove happy and wise.

When a young man and girl love each other with all the mighty, creative force of young love, it is not to be expected that this love can last in all its intensity throughout the years of marriage. But if more or less fleeting, creative love is combined with unselfish, understanding friendship, the two qualities should gradually merge into a wonderful, loyal affection, a mutual trust and service, which enriches life with grace and tenderness and is all satisfying.

Give friendship the chance to establish itself before you think seriously about marriage, no matter how wildly you are in love. Friendship gains the approval of the head as well as heart. Once established it is calm, unchanging, infinitely loyal.

Take time to study the man who wishes to marry you. When offguard is he always kind to animals, to inferiors, to those who are old or helpless?

How does he treat his sisters and mother? What is his attitude toward women? Can he support a wife? Is he willing to support a wife? What do men think of him? Is he generally respected? Do you respect him? Do you feel comfortable and chummy when you are with him?

Last but not least, for it comprises the "friendship plus!" Are his kisses sweetly welcome? Does the touch of his hand thrill you? Are you eager to do your part and hold his love as a wife?

Unless he passes this test and wins the approval of your head and heart, wait—do not marry. Until the right man comes, you are better off as an independent, happy girl earning your way.

A marriage based on infatuation without proved friendship is doomed. The friendship-without-love marriage is wise only for older persons and under certain circumstances. Too much should not be expected of such a marriage. But best of all, promising life's sweetest joy and usefulness and peace, is the marriage that combines love and true friendship. Fortunate is the girl who falls in love with and marries a friend!

Tomatoes With Eggs

Pare even sized tomatoes and hollow them out. Dust with pepper and salt. Brush over with a little soft butter. Break an egg into each, set on a buttered baking plate, put the tops sliced off the tomatoes on top of each and bake until the tomatoes are tender and the eggs set. Serve with a good cream sauce. This makes a good luncheon dish.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Health Reasons for Eliminating the Smoke Nuisance.

ONE of the problems of modern city life is the removal of the smoke nuisance. It requires watchfulness, tact and wisdom on the part of health and police officials to rid a city of this menace to cleanliness and health.

Cincinnati has been after the smoke for many years past. The officials believe they have conquered the evil and that the Queen City may boast of its freedom from this intolerable nuisance.

DR. COPELAND

It is desirable to have every community so slick and clean that the fussiest person would express approval of the municipal housekeeping. Everybody will agree to this statement, I am sure. But for my part I am interested in getting rid of smoke because to do so means that a serious hazard to health has been removed.

Dust and smoke are irritating to the eyes, nose, throat and lungs. Continued irritation is harmful to any tissue. One of the first rules of health is to get away from steady irritation.

Boiler factories, machine shops and all other din-producing establishments are more or less damaging to ears and brain. Fortunately, we "get used" to noise and clatter, but nevertheless it is tiring and helps to exhaust the nerve energy of a sensitive person.

But dust and smoke are far worse than noise, because they are material things, capable of doing mechanical harm. They irritate the mucous membranes, causing the blood vessels to be crowded with blood. This is the state we speak of as "congestion."

It is only a step from congestion to inflammation. The way is being prepared, too, for a breakdown in what we call the "resistance" of the body.

Nature is a kind mother. She has planned our tissues so they are prepared to fight off the attacks of unfriendly germs. She has given us powers of resistance which operate perfectly if we live correctly and do nothing to harm our bodies.

I do not need to tell you it was never intended that we should spend our days and nights in an atmosphere contaminated by the irritating fumes of dense smoke. To do so is to invite catarrh, bronchitis and influenza, as well as to prepare the way for the common cold.

We are hearing much these days about the importance of the "ultra-violet rays" of light. Any light possessing these qualities is capable of stimulating growth and energy. It helps to make us more healthful and vigorous.

To require the sun's rays to filter through an atmosphere dense with smoke is to lessen the health-giving qualities of the light. By that we are actually robbed of elements which should contribute to the physical welfare of the human family.

Not alone should smoke production be done away with because of the wicked waste of heat units, but for the sake of good health, the campaign deserves success. It is something in which every citizen has a personal interest.

J. L. H.—Q. How can sciatic rheumatism in a patient of 72 be corrected?

A.—First of all, look for a possible source of infection. Massage and application of heat should give increased comfort until your doctor prescribes for you. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

The Coffee Tastes So Good Because The Flavor is Roasted In

GOOD coffee! The very thought of it, fragrant and tasteful, makes one long for a steaming cup. But there are so many coffee-making failures! How can a housewife be sure of good coffee every time—coffee which really brings to the table that ravishing aroma you smell round a roasting oven?

The Dwinell-Wright Company, producers and roasters of White House Coffee, have found the answer. As a result of 70 years of coffee-roasting experience, they have developed a coffee-roasting process that roasts the flavor in.

Special methods of control advance the roasting of White House Coffee without allowing the precious coffee oils to evaporate. These oils, developing in the "roast," produce the mellow fragrance and flavor that make good coffee so satisfying.

In the White House ovens, the natural coffee goodness is roasted to a definite "peak"—just enough to perfect the full coffee taste, but not enough to drive the life of the coffee out of the beans. Thus the flavor is roasted into White House Coffee and not out into the air.

If you want to serve coffee that tastes as good as fine coffee smells when it's roasting, order White House Coffee. The Flavor is Roasted In!

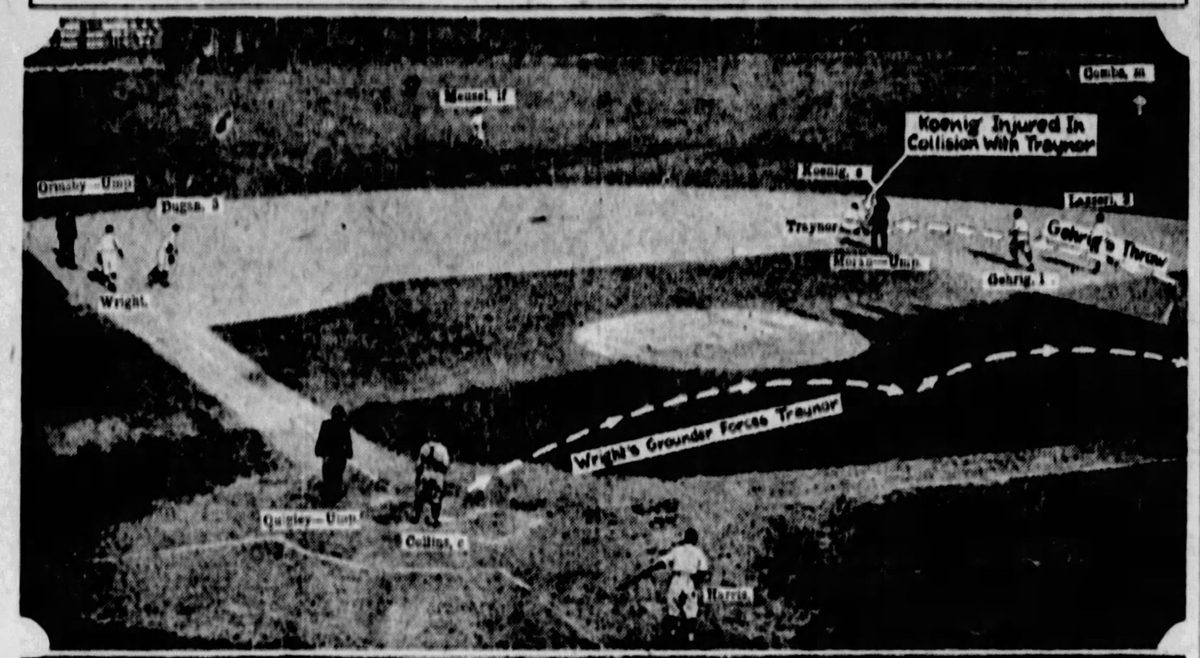
MEUSEL ADMITS YANKEES GOT BREAKS

DIAGRAMMED PLAYS OF OPENER



TRAYNOR UPSETS KOENIG IN COLLISION

One of the highlights of the opening game was the above thrilling play at second base. It occurred in the eighth inning, when Pie Traynor was forced at second on Grantham's tap to Gehrig, who threw to Koenig. Koenig blocked the basepath and Traynor ran him down, and for a time it appeared as if Mark was seriously hurt.

HARRIS BATS IN PIRATES' LAST RUN

Joe Harris' long single to center in the eighth inning knocked in Glenn Wright with the Pirates' last run, as pictured above. Wright singled and advanced on Traynor's hit and an infield out to get in a scoring position.

YANKEES FILL BASES IN THIRD

The Pirates were in a tough spot in the third inning when, after Combs, the first batter up, was retired, the Yankees filled the bases on Grantham's error on Koenig's grounder, Ruth's single and Gehrig's walk. Picture above shows Gehrig going to first base. Meusel then was walked, forcing in Koenig with what proved to be the winning margin.

CORSAIRS HAVE REAL FIGHTING CREW

By BOB MEUSEL,
Written for Universal Service.

EVERY rule of the thing that's sportsmanship forces me to concede that the "breaks" won for us yesterday.

The Pirates gave us a tough argument—far tougher than any of us really figured upon and we certainly did need a little luck in that third inning to pull us through to victory. Without it—well, I am not so sure that we'd be doing the cheering.

It was a ball game that stirred up plenty of thrills among the customers because there were many tense and stirring moments. But as a ball game, based upon standard of play, I guess none of us can do any great amount of cheering.

Nervousness seems to trouble some of us and also some of the Pirates. As a result, the play was ragged and not the kind that the Yankees really can play nor even the brand that the Pirates can put up.

But, speaking for the Yanks, I know we'll get into our stride today, and the team will begin to hit consistently, not leaving most of it to Babe Ruth, and after that day we'll just be a case of taking the measure of the Pirates in a hurry.

The Babe was our particular hero yesterday afternoon—and he didn't have to hit out for bases to gather in the laurels. Those Pittsburgh pitchers seemed to figure that Ruth would try to hammer everything out of the lot and they kept the "grooves" away from him. But Babe "crossed" them by cuffing their twisters for singles—and these singles won the ball game for us. These Pirates are a mighty game bunch—and they certainly have the true fighting spirit. Any other club that had "spotted" us that three-run

"Wait Till We Get Going Right"—Babe

HERO IN DEFEAT

PITCHER JOHN MILJUS

Who relieved Ray Kremer in the first game against the Yankees at Forbes Field yesterday, with Lazzeri on second base and none out in the sixth inning, and prevented further scoring. Only one batter—Ruth—got a hit off the Lawrenceville product, and he was caught napping off first base. Only 12 batters faced Miljus out of a possible 12 while he was on the mound. It was too bad his good work went for naught.

"TERRIBLE," IS RUTH'S VERDICT

By JESS CARVER.

The Babe thinks yesterday's World's Series ball game, won by his Yankees from our own Pirates, was terrible.

And 41,467 fans who charged, scrambled, chewed and pried their way into Forbes Field think about the same thing. The Yanks, hitters extraordinary, collected six measly hits, or mostly measly, and only through a momentary loss of effectiveness on the part of Remy Kremer and the punting on the first down tactics of the Pirate infield were they able to garner enough runs to win. (Anything under a triple is termed "measly" by the Yanks).

According to the Babe and some of his mates, the Yanks should have an early morning hitting session. The Yanks crabbed there over yesterday's win than they usually do over a defeat. Hoyt wasn't right, the sluggers were off, and Babe couldn't get the range on the right field pavilion.

"If we can win a ball game like that one yesterday, and only play the sort of ball we did, it will be just too bad for someone when we open up."

But Saturday and tomorrow there won't be any baseball game out at Forbes Field, the Pirates and the Yanks will be in New York, and you sports will have to have something to do.

Lou Gehrig's word to the world is this: "Just wait till old Babe gets his eye trained on that right field pavilion. He'll have the fans crawling under their seats."

Those who collected some of that 10 to 8 and 10 to 9 money on the opener were tickled to death with the fine defensive game played by the Yanks. There wasn't much betting, and in a few instances even money was offered.

ANGERED BUCS SAIL INTO YANKEES

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service
Staff Correspondent.

With one shot of 5-to-4 calibre sunk into its bow, but still quite seaworthy, the low, rakish craft of the Pittsburgh Pirates sailed valiantly into battle with the New York Yankees this afternoon, bent upon wreaking vengeance. Commander Donnie Bush was on deck, breathing defiance and asserting in stentorian tones that no quarter would be asked or granted.

All Pirate guns were trained, cutlasses drawn and boarding parties ready. Vic Aldridge was in the turret prepared to man the main battery. The Waner brothers, most ferocious of Pirates, were primed for hand-to-hand action, and Wright, Traynor and Harris emerged from the hold with fire in their eyes. The Bucs were in a nasty mood, and showed it.

The weather was ideal for the second world series game. It was like a midsummer day, the sun shining brightly into the tow ering steel stands and upon the carefully manicured diamond. The atmosphere was balmy and the breeze across the ball park was so faint it barely ruffled the American flag atop the pole in center field.

The excitement and frenzy that characterized the opening game died down considerably today. There was no all-night vigil of fans at the gates, no charging of the police lines outside the park or concerted attempts to scale the high wall. Instead the fans came in quite orderly fashion and in such moderate numbers during the morning that when the bleacher gates were opened at 10 o'clock only half the seats were occupied.

Shortly before noon Nirella's 22-piece band, attired in scarlet coats, came upon the field and marched out to the bleachers where they entertained the spectators with the latest popular selections.

A few minutes later Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the bufoons of baseball, made a dramatic entrance into the arena bowing to the left and right like victorious bull fighters. They were received with a mixture of applause and rasberries.

Mr. Altrock at once seized the director's baton and assumed charge of the band. He led the musicians close to a box along the third base line wherein reclined a chic-looking member of the fair sex. Altrock went into a huddle with members of the band, emerged, struck a pose before the young lady, and signaled the band to play:

"Let Me Call You Sweetheart, I'm In Love With You."

The girl gave the handsome Mr. Altrock a withering look. Undaunted, Nick tried the piece twice more, but the young woman registered nothing but exertme boredom. Finally, Nick turned his attention to some ex-bartenders in the left field bleachers and his antics got across in a big way.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

THE cloud of defeat that hangs over Pittsburgh after the defeat suffered in the first game of the world series with the Yankees yesterday may after all have a silver lining.

If baseball history, or rather world series history, could be depended upon to keep repeating as it has been repeating during the last few years, local fans might well celebrate rather than mourn yesterday's reverse and accept it joyfully as a sign of victory in the end for the Pirates.

FOR if you look back over the world series records you will make the happy discovery that in every one of the last four classics the club that won the opening game was beaten out by its opponent and lost the series.

In 1923 the Giants defeated the Yankees in the first tilt of the title struggle by a score of 5 to 4, but the Yanks immediately turned around and won the series by capturing four of the next five games.

IN 1924 the Giants won the decision over Washington, 4 to 3, in the initial encounter, which lasted 12 innings, and the McGrawmen also won three of the first five contests, but the Senators took a brace and copped the series by winning the sixth and seventh events, the final struggle going 12 innings.

In 1925 the Pirates were beaten in the curtain raiser by Washington, 4 to 1, Walter Johnson holding them to five hits and striking out 10 men. Washington also won two of the next three games, giving them a lead of three games to one in the series, but the Buccaneers, with their backs to the wall and with seemingly certain defeat staring them in the face, proceeded to put up such a remarkable fight that they bagged the fifth, sixth and seventh and took the honors in the series.

LAST year the Yankees downed the St. Louis Nationals in the fiddlifter, 2 to 1, and by winning the fourth and fifth games gained a lead of three games to two in the series, only to see the Cardinals snatch the title out of their grasp in the last stages by winning the sixth and seventh games in the series.

Going back to 1921, it is found that the Yankees won not only the first game, but the second as well, shutting out the Giants on both occasions, yet the Giants won the series. And it was a best five-out-of-nine series that year, so that the Giants, in coming from behind, won five out

BUSH LOOKS FOR VICTORY IN 2ND GAME

By DONIE BUSH,
Manager Pittsburgh Pirates.

I WAS disappointed by the Pirates' failure to capture the opening game of the World Series yesterday, but the club was nervous and I look for my boys to even the count this afternoon.

The boys have learned that the Yankees are not the supermen some fans have been led to believe, and I feel certain that our pitchers can stop their strong batting attack.

DONIE BUSH

With yesterday's poor showing out of their systems, the Pirates will take the field today determined to get revenge.

We had some tough breaks yesterday that had a big bearing on the outcome, but these misplays are part of the game.

I am placing my faith in Vic Aldridge to enable us to even the series count today. Vic was one of the biz stars in the 1925 world series between the Pirates and Senators and I feel certain he will master the Yankees this afternoon.

While disappointed, I am not disheartened by our showing yesterday and I believe both teams will leave for New York tonight with the series deadlocked.

DOROTHY WHITE MEETS MISS HOLZDERFER TODAY

WASHINTON, Oct. 6.—(AP.)—Miss Dorothy White, District of Columbia champion, and Miss Virginia Holzderfer, Maryland state titleholder, were slated to clash today in the second round play of the Middle Atlantic women's golf championship here. Entries in the tourney are mainly from Maryland and Washington.

YANKS FAIL TO IMPRESS IN OPENING VICTORY

By Vic Aldridge

"The Hoosier Schoolmaster."

The first battle for the world's baseball gonfalon is now a matter of record and our Pirates find themselves on the short end of a 5 to 4 count, but even in victory the Yanks did not seem to establish any superiority over our club.

ALDRIDGE

The breaks of the game, the ever big factor in a short series, were unquestionably on the side of the Yanks.

Things broke badly in the very first inning when, with two men out, Ruth singled to right and Gehrig followed with a short fly to the same territory, which was an ordinary single, but the ball took a freak hop to the side of Paul Waner, who was playing his man deep on account of his long hitting ability. Paul, coming in fast, made a strenuous effort to catch the ball, which went for a triple, allowing Ruth to score the first run.

In the third inning a slight relapse on the part of the Pirate defense and Kremer's temporary wildness while working carefully on the two sluggers, Gehrig and Meusel, permitted the Yanks to score three runs while making only one hit, a single by Ruth.

The Yanks failed to live up to their great slugging reputations, as their attack was chiefly a one-man offensive. The Pirates, as had been predicted, actually stole the offensive and not only outhit them nine hits to six, but also practically tied them in long-distance clouting, as we had three doubles and they were credited with two doubles and one triple.

Only four men hit safely for the Yanks, while seven men on the Pirate club connected for safe drives, which might tend to verify former statements that they have a concentrated attack and our club a uniform punch throughout the lineup.

The Pirates hit the ball harder than the Yanks throughout the whole game, but the latter distinguished themselves by turning many a hard smash into an out and I think should be given the edge on defense in the first game.

Ruth made a nice catch of Traynor's fly along the right field foul line. Gehrig came up cleanly with three hard drives from Grantham's bat and both Koenig and Lazzeri played flawlessly around the keystone sack.

John Miljus gained laurels by his brilliant work during the last four innings, allowing one lone hit, a single by Ruth.

HUG PRAISES YANKEES AFTER OPENING WIN

IN THE Yankee club house yesterday after the first game of the big series between the Yankees and the Pirates, Manager Miller Huggins expressed gratification over the way his club performed in winning, 5 to 4.

MILLER HUGGINS

"Hoyt was not right," said Huggins, "and he knew it. He was not sure of himself. He simply suffered one of those days which come to all pitchers. Moore was good enough to hold the slim lead we had over the hard hitting Pirates.

"I'll use Pipgras in the second game and Bengough will be behind the plate.

Yesterday I was more than pleased with the work of our infield. Gehrig, Koenig and Lazzeri all performed in splendid fashion. Dugan didn't have a chance. No one could find fault with our club the way we took advantage of the Pirates' misplays."

Stripping off for the showers, the Yankees were in hilarious mood. They were quite anxious to get the jump in the series and when they accomplished this feat they were not quiet in registering elation. The club house was filled with congratulations floating from one Yankee to a comrade.

Huggins does not look for an easy time just because his team won the first game.

The Yankees, said Huggins, would not be lulled into a feeling of false security just because they won when the Pirates apparently had a bad day. The New York pilot said he realized the potential power of the Corsairs and knew that another day might bring another story.

RAJAH IS WISTFUL SERIES SPECTATOR

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

ROGERS HORNSBY and John McGraw, captain and manager of the Giants, sat behind me in the press box at Forbes Field yesterday "experting" on the series.

Last year Rogers was the hero-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and led them to a world series victory over the New York Yankees. This year he was the star of the Giants, and, along with McGraw, almost booted home the club a pennant-winner after a bad start.

I watched the Rajah particularly during yesterday's game. He seldom took his mind off the terrain between second and first. Was he wishing he were out there playing and dreaming of what might have been? Perhaps. There was a wistful look in his eyes once the play began.

Hornsby was loud in his praise of the Yankees' infield following the game. He said it was much improved over the inner defense that played against the Cardinals last fall. Both Koenig and Lazzeri impressed him with their work.

THROUGH the SPORT LENS by HAVEY BOYLE

I READ once of the opening of a very magnificent theater in the East. There were in the decorative scheme considerable finery in the way of tapestries, rugs, chandeliers and murals of real worth. The cost of the theater, the account ran, mounted well into the millions.

On the opening night, with an audience of splendor on hand, bejewelled ladies and aristocratic gentlemen, the opening act on the bill produced a bum in tattered coat, patches in his trousers and facial makeup denoting three days' growth of beard. There was something ludicrous about a tramp comedian acting as a sort of epilogue in such dazzling theatrical magnificence. Somehow, yesterday's Pirate defeat brings to mind the soiled tramp in a four million dollar theater.

With a record-breaking attendance, paying a record-breaking admission sum; with a beautiful day; with an excited throng; with state and national officials, noted visitors from the East and West on hand; with a holiday and extra-festival air pervading at Forbes Field yesterday, with all these on tap, it seemed just a little strange that everything was there but a good ball game. I say this in neither sorrow or anger. It is just an interesting fact.

THE historian will have to stroke his whiskers long to dig up a less exciting game, with so many properties ready to furnish the thrills. With the great and worthy Ruth; with the lesser, but quite brilliant Gehrig, with the great Waner Brothers act in the wings, with Kremer and Hoyt, and Wiley Moore well-rehearsed, the show was a great success until that precise moment when the curtain went up. An immense audience, eager to be stirred easily, found it just a little difficult to keep up a nervous tension.

FORTUNATELY, for the purposes of baseball art, baseball is capable of considerable variety. Where 41,000 persons moved out of the park yesterday afternoon, not disconsolate, exactly, but disappointed, the same number before the series is over may be running around in circles, able only to point in the absence of power of speech, and cutting other hysterical didoes. But yesterday's 5 to 4 Yankee victory was beyond all doubt a victory of negation. The Yanks it is true, took advantage of Pirate lapses, but mainly Pirate lapses paved the way for Yankee victory. In the big inning for the Yankees—the third—Kremer walked two men, forcing in a run, this being preceded by Grantham's fumble, and being followed by Smith's fumble which allowed Gehrig to score. Gehrig, trapped off third, and in line for a penalty in the form of being put out, actually won a reward for his faux pas when Smith committed a greater one.

THREE usually reliable pitchers, Kremer, Hoyt, and Wiley Moore, even if Moore did manage to hold a one-run lead, were faulty, while a relief pitcher, Miljus, cast for a humble role, actually surpassed on the positive side even Ruth, and other far more celebrated men on the rosters. Miljus left the game as the hero, although he was on the losing side. His work, aside from the three-hit performance of both Ruth and Paul Waner—was the only positive feature of the game.

Fielding was only fair in the spots when it was not actually bad. No true line on the relative merits of the contending clubs could be obtained from the performance of yesterday. It was a case of which was the lesser and not which was the greater.

THE answer may be that all the boys were simply finding their world series legs after two widely different voyages to the pennant.

THE Yankees, having breezed in, and the Pirates having staggered in, perhaps it took just the sort of a game as yesterday's to put both clubs back in their best stride. That neither was on its best legs is shown by the fact that a good hitting club like the Yankees got only six hits while an ordinarily smooth-working club like the Pirates—smooth anyway behind fair pitching—played a rather ragged game in the field.

HOWEVER, the first game may have brought out a circumstance to set the stage for heroic stuff. It developed the splendid capabilities of John Miljus, native Pittsburgher, who moved from the obscure role of relief man, to a role of potential starter.

Yanks Prove "Beatable"

By Joe Harris

Pirate First Baseman, Former American League Star and Hero of Senators in 1925 World Series.

ALTHOUGH I do not wish to detract from the championship qualities of the Yankees, I believe that every one of the forty odd thousand people who saw the first clash of the world's series yesterday will bear me out in the contention that the New York boys were favored with nearly every break of the contest.

HARRIS

The box score will show you that we outhit the Yankees, those who looked on realize that we hit a number of line smashes that were caught, while the American League sluggers were let down with six hits and one of these—Gehrig's three-bagger which scored Ruth in the first inning—was nothing more than a pop fly. I realize that Gehrig is a great batter, and there is no player who does not relish one of these lucky blows, but Lou probably would be one of the first to suggest that his triple that scored the Bambino would have been an easy out had it carried a few yards farther.

Any time a club scores five runs on six hits, they have to be lucky. If we had scored five yesterday to win under the same conditions, our players would be fair enough to say that Lady Luck had smiled upon us, but she surely did save her frowns for our side. Some of the hot smashes off Pittsburgh bats were hit so hard that runners could not go from first to third on the blows. Combs picked up a couple of hot singles that were "kissed" and the runners had to pull up at second.

RAY LACKS CONTROL

The members of our club felt that we had a good chance to stop the Yankee sluggers. Ruth and Gehrig were unable to get a long blow, although Babe was a star with three singles.

It was unfortunate for the Pirates that Kremer was without his control. Had Ray been the Kremer who went down the home stretch of the National League, I think our four tallies would have been sufficient for victory in the opener. And that brings us to John Miljus.

I don't think we can sing the praises of Miljus too warmly. John came to us about mid-season and very quickly proved his worth. His relief-pitching saved the game that clinched the pennant for the Pirates and I think that John convinced both clubs and all the fans present that he is a real pitcher.

Miljus, I believe, had a perfect record in one sense. He pitched four complete innings and only 12 batters faced him. He was called into play with a runner on second and none out, but there was no scoring. Babe Ruth was the only player to make a hit off him.

BUCS CONFIDENT

It is an absolute fact that the Pirates, when they entered the club house after their defeat had more confidence than before the start of the battle. The opener showed that good pitching will stop the American League champions.

Waite Hoyt has long been a star of the mound, but we were able to get quite a few solid punches off Hoyt. And if we can solve Waite we should be able to measure any of the enemy pitchers for hits.

All baseball men concede that the breaks are an important factor in the winning of games, and in a short series it is possible for an inferior club to grab the honor. The present titular fights, we figure, involved two high-class ball clubs. We are hoping for a favor here and there today and there may be a different result.

TOLEDO NEEDS ONLY ONE WIN IN LITTLE SERIES

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 6.—(AP.)—The Buffalo Bisons, champions of the International League, stood at bay today with defeat in the "little world series" hovering over them, holding only one victory out of five in the conflict with the Toledo Mudhens of the American Association.

BIG GATE LOOMS FOR RING SHOW

With the possibility that the sixth game of the world series will be played here next Monday, the Motor Square Boxing Club is looking forward to a big gate for its second show of the season next Monday night, which will be featured by the appearance of Cuddy DeMarco of McKeesport and Billy Wallace of Cleveland in the main bout.

Four eight-round battles will make up the program.

Rudy Cedar, Tarentum welterweight, boxes Harry Harris of Niles, O., in the semi-final; Kid Crutchfield, Negro heavyweight of the Hill, who is returning to the ring after a layoff of a few years, mixes with Sam Hunter, also a Negro heavy, in the second bout, and Pat Gallagher, South Side featherweight, boxes the best obtainable opponent in the opener.

Phil McGraw and Sid Terris meet in a 10-round return bout at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight. Terris won their first meeting after being floored several times. Last week Sid was beaten by Hilario Martinez.

Tex Rickard expects a gate of $100,000 for his light-heavyweight championship battle between Mike McTigue and Tommy Loughran in Madison Square Garden, New York, tomorrow night. McTigue rules a 7-5 favorite.

Sergt Sammy Baker, New York welterweight contender, meets Bill Alger at Chicago tonight. Art Weigand, Buffalo light-heavyweight, boxes Roleaux Saguero of Cuba in the semi-final.

the titular series, I still cannot divorce myself from the idea that the Pirates should have won. That Smith play on the attempted double steal, Paul Waner's slip-up in right field, Grantham's fumble and one or two other errors of commission and omission tell the story of the defeat. If Hoyt is the Yankees' best pitcher, then the rest of the going shouldn't be so tough. And, if Kremer had had a good day or Miljus had started the game, a different story would have been told.

A few more entrances for the bleacher fans would help to prevent the confusion that marked yesterday's opening and closing of those gates. The crowd was not handled very rapidly and this caused most of the disorder.

Miljus was by far the best pitcher to appear on the field and earned the right to start a game in the series.

Pie and Lou Heroes of Feminine Fans

By CORINNE RICH,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Lou Gehrig and Pie Traynor, famous bachelors of the Yanks and Pirates respectively, focused feminine attention in the big game yesterday.

What woman—and there are many, many here—does not love a nice young man trying to get along in the world?

Lou and Pie are just that—good-looking, young, unusually well educated, not too interested in the girls, and completely in love with their mothers.

Lou's devotion to his mater far outweighs his penchant for home runs so far as women admirers are concerned. And Pie's little white-haired mother, who travels around with him, keeping house and seeing that he gets to bed by 8 o'clock, has added unchronicled volumes to her stalwart son's popularity.

Young Pie in fact, is a "model" boy, the sport writers say, with not a bad habit to speak of and any number of virtues.

So the women yesterday followed the diamond doings of this Lou and this Pie with equal enthusiasm, no matter how the betting stood.

Wives of the players, scattered throughout the grandstands, were looking elsewhere. They had their own particular favorites to watch and they were all in their seats long before "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung.

Player-wives are known for loyalty to their mates and rarely miss a game when they are around—just as players must be good husbands, according to one talented scribe, because they write absent wives every day or call 'em up long distance or something. Well anyway the management, it's told, a few years back quit the practice of seating Pirate wives together.

The wives in all their fealty to the home fires, it seems, just would pass baseball gossip around in their ranks—and you know what gossip can do to the best regulated households—and teams.

Among other resulting catastrophes, two Pirate pitchers, it is said, stopped speaking because of what their wives had heard and told at a game.

Of course there are any number of good styles for a young man this Fall. But if you were to approach us confidentially and ask which of them all would really make the smartest outfit, we would probably have to answer — a Three-Button Society Brand. For two good reasons—

First, the three-button style is tremendously popular with young men everywhere.

Second, when it comes to turning out such a suit with absolute perfection—with just the proper balance between swagger and restraint—well, nobody ever did equal Society Brand.

It's the correct cut that does it. Keep that point in mind. Whichever style you finally choose, make it a Society Brand, and you're sure to be well dressed!

FARMER WILCY MOORE HERO OF OPENING CONTEST

CHILLY SAUCE
By Chilly Doyle

PIRATE fans regretted to see the Freebooters in the dull actions on display at times yesterday. Earl Smith and Paul Waner were offenders. Smith's movements when Gehrig and Lazzeri tried their double steal were not of a big-league caliber. Earl tricked Gehrig with a fake throw to second. Lou streaked for the plate as Smith held the ball. Then, instead of waiting for Gehrig, Earl threw low to Traynor, who made a fine grab of the ball. If Smith had held the sphere, the best Gehrig could have got was himself in the middle of a trap. Traynor made a remarkable effort to get the ball past the runner and into Smith's glove. Pie actually did this, but Earl muffed the quick return.

BROTHER PAUL, a hero of the battle in an offensive way, made a mental error in trying to catch Gehrig's fly. Had he taken the ball on the bound, he could have held Lou on third. Two were out at the time. If the Pirates don't get together on a snappier basis, they may lose more games.

BESIDES his pitching skill, John Miljus is the best fielding pitcher on the Pirate squad. More than six feet tall and weighing more than 180 pounds, John is like a dancing master as he moves around the infield. Miljus covered first on a hard grounder which Harris gathered in behind first. The two made the assist and putout cleverly.

PREVIOUS to last Saturday's battle in Cincinnati, Remy Kremer stood out like an unbeatable pitcher. He had a string of brilliant performances and the Buccos banked on him to cop the game that clinched the flag. But Remy could not get by the Reds. It was thought then that Kremer, due for a bad game, would pick himself up again in time to be in a fine stride for the series.

IN justice to Kremer, it is a fact that Remy stood to pull through the bad third had Grantham not fumbled Koenig's bounder. Nevertheless, Remy issued a pass to Meusel with the bases filled, and when Frenchy makes a move of this sort it is not his day.

"IS the American League ball a livelier rocket than that which is used in the National circuit?" My answer, without any examination of the Spalding and Reach products, is in the affirmative. I am convinced that the Reach ball, which the Yankees hammered in the batting session of yesterday, had more "rabbit" than the Spalding spheres tossed out when the game began.

THOSE who take the negative of the question will point out that the balls are made by the same firm, and, therefore, are uniform. But there are a score or more varieties of baseballs and gloves made by this firm, and what would prevent the manufacturer of a livelier ball, if it were desired. Players who have examined the National League sphere recently insist that it has been cut down a lot. The falling off of triples in the bats of Paul Waner and other sluggers bears out this contention.

THERE is one report to the effect that the Yanks practice with a lively ball for show. However, Babe Ruth is one slugger who does not have to have the pellet speeded up. When he connects the apple just has to go a "fur distance."

MEUSEL

lead in the third might have flopped up. But not the Pirates. They just kept on battling, undiscouraged by their earlier bobbling and undismayed by the lead we had.

And they gave us a big scare in the eighth when a hit by Earl Smith meant a tie or a victory for Pittsburgh.

But in a crisis like that we had old "Icewater" Wiley Moore on the mound for us. Moore, the man who rises to his greatest heights in moments of emergency. We had confidence that Moore would turn them back—and he did.

We're a mighty happy gang, and there's plenty of reason. We opened in the town of the enemy—and we emerged victorious in the battle. The team that wins the first game doesn't always win the series, but that one triumph certainly is a big advantage for us.

PIPGRAS TO HURL SECOND GAME

By DAMON RUNYON,
By Universal Service Staff Correspondent

IN HIS farm house down in Oklahoma last fall, sat a big-raw-boned, horny-handed tiller of the Oklahoma soil, eagerly listening in on his radio to the exciting details of the world series between the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees.

The neighbors looked in on Farmer Wiley Moore occasionally, and asked:

"How's she goin', Wilcy?"

I presume that Farmer Wiley Moore, at that time, did not dream that he would be furnishing radio fodder himself for the eavesdroppers of the land a year later, but such is undoubtedly the case.

I hope and trust that the neighbors of Farmer Wiley Moore were listening in to hear how the old boy stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates as dead in their tracks as a stalled flivver, and helped the New York Yankees win the first game of the world's series of 1927 by the score of 5 to 4.

Farmer Moore came on in the eighth inning of the pastime after two of the first three men up had singled off Waite Hoyt, the Brooklyn baseball bender of the American League champions. The farmer spat upon his hands, took a good handful of the horsehide and kept the home boys from going too far.

But it will probably be sad news to the folks down in Oklahoma that Wiley doesn't get credit for winning the game. That goes to Waite Hoyt. These city slickers have a way of preventing a country chap from getting all that's coming to him. It seems that Waite Hoyt wasn't in such severe straits at the moment of his relief by Farmer Wiley Moore as to give the later the victory.

Hoyt might have wiggled out all right if Huggins had let him go along, but Huggins can see no sense in taking chances when Wiley Moore is around. The Pirates got eight hits off Hoyt, and one off Moore.

Ray Kremer, the Pacific Coast righthander, started out for the Pirates, and the Yanks landed on him for five hits in six innings. John Miljus took his place and held the Yanks to one hit thereafter.

SPORT COMMENT

of six straight games, beating the Yanks out five to four.

SO IT will be seen that there is still plenty of hope for the Buccaneers.

If the club that lost the first game in each of the last four world series and in five of the last six, eventually won out, why should it not be conceded that the Buccaneers have just as good a chance as those others in the past to win out over the Yanks, even though they are required to win four out of six while the New Yorkers need only break even to win the series? The Bucs themselves won not only the first games but three of the first four in the 1903 series, yet lost out.

CERTAINLY the Buccaneers will have to play better ball than they put up yesterday to turn the tables, but no one doubts for a minute that they can do it. Bush's ballers merely had one of those bad days that come to every club at times, and in particular had one bad inning that was fatal, errors by Grantham and Smith and two bases on balls by Kremer, enabling the visitors to score three runs on a single hit.

Kremer normally does not have a day like that in a month, that is a day on which he is so lacking in control as he was yesterday. The Gothamites were fortunate to catch him on one of his rare off-days.

AMEN CORNER HONORS THEM

FRED C. CLARKE SEN. FRANK J. HARRIS LEW WENTZ DAVID LAWRENCE

Clarke, the former Pirate manager, came on from his home in Kansas in company with Wentz, former local high school coach and now a multi-millionaire oil man of Tulsa, Okla., to attend the world series and they were honored by their friends in the Amen Corner in the William Penn Hotel last night. State Senator Harris and Lawrence, a local political leader, were among those in the party.

WOOSTER AND MT. UNION TO MEET IN 19TH GAME

WOOSTER, O., Oct. 6.—When Wooster meets Mount Union here Saturday it will be the nineteenth football game between teams from those two schools. Wooster, thanks to a long string of wins under Coach L. C. Boles, has the edge in wins with 11.

STRENUOUS WEEK END AHEAD FOR BUCKEYES

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 6.—Fervent followers of the fortunes of Ohio State's crop of gridiron stalwarts who worry about Northwestern, Illinois, loss in their sleep over Illinois and actually moan when Michigan is mentioned would do well to spare a misgiving for Saturday's affair with Iowa. Advance reports from the land of the tall corn have been of a conciliatory character, breathing apologies for appearing on the same field with the Scarlet and Gray but there appears no inclination on the Ohio campus to leave the first team at home.

Iowa, rated near the bottom of the Conference by many writers, has a seasoned line, ranked by two of the likeliest ends of the season and garnished with a backfield that knows what to do with a football.

The New RCA Loudspeaker 100-A

Amazing richness and mellowness of tone

The new Loudspeaker 100-A is even better than the famous model 100, known the country over for its deep, full tones, and its faithful reproduction over the entire musical range.

Refinements of construction, as a result of research by RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse acoustical experts, have resulted in a still more perfect reproducer.

Musicians of international fame who have heard the new RCA Loudspeaker are amazed at its richness and mellowness of tone.

Ask any RCA Authorized Dealer to demonstrate RCA Loudspeaker 100-A. Compare its mellow tones with other speakers. Note the remarkable difference made by its true reproduction of voice and music.

Forbes

Stenographer-Janitor Is Now Made President; Why!

By B. C. FORBES

COMES another illustration that not always are younger men chosen to head large enterprises. One of the very big jobs in America has just been filled by selecting a man turned 56, A. F. Hockenbeamer, the successor of the late W. E. Creed as president of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company.

If you are more than half-way through life without having neared the top, don't despair—provided you have been making the right preparations to climb. That is essential.

NOBODY could have had a more ordinary start than the new president of this great public utility company, one of the largest in the whole land. The facts are briefly, breezily given in the company's own publication thus:

"He was born in Logansport, Indiana, March 6, 1871; started school at five; at eight got his spending money by selling newspapers on the streets; at ten distributed handbills, papering the whole town for fifty cents; at 12 took a spare-hour and vacation-time job in the 'book store;' read everything he could get his hands on, swept out the store at 6:30 a. m., including the corners, dusted the shelves, decorated the show window, waited on customers, arranged the sidewalk display, and at 10 p. m. cheerfully awaited the boss' order to 'bring the animals in for the night.'"

THE next paragraph is even more revealing, for it shows that this Hoosier youth had foresight and was willing to make sacrifices for the sake of greater future possibilities. Read this:

"Some how by the time he was sixteen he had managed to take a course in stenography. The Pennsylvania Railroad hired stenographers in its division headquarters down the street. But there was no vacancy. So he decided to supply the only existing demand, which was for a messenger boy. And he didn't even blink when he was put on the payroll, not as messenger, but as 'third floor janitor.'

"Besides brooming and dusting the third floor, he had to coal five base-burners and clean out the ashes, supervise the then strictly modern and efficient office system, consisting of 32 nickel-plated oil-burning student lamps, make blueprints and answer the call of everybody who needed a little assistance. For all that he was paid $15 a month."

L. F. LOREE, who is now striving to effect a gigantic railway consolidation, was then a division engineer and whenever he needed extra stenographic help he always found the messenger boy both eager and capable. For years as he climbed the railway ladder Loree took young Hockenbeamer along until Hockenbeamer reached the position of assistant to the president of the Rock Island-San Francisco system.

MEANWHILE, Hockenbeamer had studied both railroading and finance. He liked the latter so much that he became railway expert for an influential New York bond house which happened to be a large holder of P. G. and E. stock. When sent to investigate thoroughly the company's position, in connection with a proposed big bond issue, he made such an impression upon the utility company's high officials that he was induced by them to stay on, as comptroller. In little more than a year he was made a vice president.

But it took exactly 20 years' service to win the presidency.

IF you own any public utility stocks, it probably is because of A. F. Hockenbeamer. He was the genius who first conceived and operated the now almost universal plan of inducing customers, householders, to become holders of public utility stocks. He also launched employe-stock ownership. P. G. and E. stockholders have increased from 2,000, when Hockenbeamer took hold, to 47,000. And 3,400 employes now are stockholders.

BUT perhaps it is Hockenbeamer's early record that carries the biggest lesson.

MONEY RATE CUT AIDS RECOVERY OF MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP.)—The recovery in stock prices, which set in late yesterday, was continued today under the leadership of the high-priced specialties. The rally was stimulated by the reduction in call money rates from 4½ to 4 per cent, which was followed by increased pool activities.

Steel and oil shares had a temporary sinking spell on unfavorable trade news, but offerings were well absorbed. New high prices for the year, or longer, were recorded by a number of issues including American Express, Beechnut Packing, Commonwealth Power, Magma Copper, Packard Motors, United States Leather and Madison Square Garden Corporation. California Petroleum, Cuba Cane Sugar and Butterick sank to new lows.

Trading was somewhat restricted by the absence of many traders in observance of the Jewish religious holidays.

Allitbi Power soared 11 points to 133, Case Threshing jumped 11, to 281, and Midland Steel Products preferred, General Motors (old), Houston Oil and Missouri Pacific preferred sold 4 or more points higher.

The closing was strong. Jersey Central dropped 7 points in the final hour, but Chicago and Northwestern jumped 7 to 150, the highest in 10 years, and "Boo" common and preferred touched new tops for the year. Total sales approximated 2,100,000 shares.

HARBISON-WALKER UP, MACHINE COMMON WEAK HERE

Standard Sanitary Hits 100-Mark

Standard Sanitary common continued its display of strength on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, absorbing a moderate volume of profit-taking in the early dealings and holding close to the new high record established in Wednesday's trading. Opening sales on Standard were at a concession of a half point from the previous close, this slight recession being attributed to offerings attracted by the rise yesterday.

Subsequent sales, however, were on the up side of the opening figure and it was apparent that demand was sufficient to take up any stock resulting from this week's advance.

Lone Star was steady around 50 during the early session with several lots changing hands at that figure. This price marked a full point's reaction from the new high recorded at the opening yesterday when the stock sold at 51. Lone Star's back-down is also ascribed to profit-taking brought in by the rise to 51 but there was no evidence of sustained pressure and friends of the company are confident the move started earlier this week has not seen its peak. Brokers say the investment demand for Lone Star is quite substantial with prospective buyers expressing willingness to take the stock around current levels in anticipation of future enhancement based on company's operation, not to mention the rumor current for some time that favorable dividend action will be taken on the stock shortly.

There were no noticeable changes in the miscellaneous list today. The Dixie Gas common held firm near its recent top but only a small volume of the stock was handled.

Scarcity of Harbison-Walker common was reflected in a 10-point jump in the price of that issue today. A 10-share lot of the stock came out, but even at the sharp advance there was a very limited supply available. The 10 shares sold at 165, the highest price on record.

American Window Glass Machine common, which has been under steady pressure for weeks, registered a new low for many years when it changed hands today at 25. This compares with the last previous sale at 30. This is a drop of 27 points from the 1927 high and compares with the 1926 high of 80. Labor disturbance and foreign competition are cited as bearish factors in relation to the stock.

During the afternoon session Standard Sanitary developed further strength and reached the 100 mark, the figure predicted some time ago when it was reported that application will be made to list the shares on the New York Stock Exchange.

Male Help Special.

WANTED.

Men! Work During Evenings An Hour or Two Daily.

$14.70 PER DAY OR MORE

Here's an Amazing Opportunity. Her is the Key to a Good Position. An Extra Pay Check Every Week. Whether Employed or Unemployed. Read Carefully and Investigate. You Can't Afford to Pass Up the Greatest Opportunity in Pittsburgh Today. So make Up Your Mind to Answer This Ad.

BUT THIS OPPORTUNITY WILL NOT LAST LONG.

Don't "grope in the dark," dreaming of extra money. You don't have to "pound the pavements," or go off on a wild goose chase." Every ambitious person in the City of Pittsburgh would be amazed and glad to avail himself of this opportunity, if he only knew the facts. YOU DON'T NEED EXPERIENCE AND YOU WON'T BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING. Realty the city's new administrative and expansion has made it necessary for us to open an entirely new department and has created an opportunity unparalleled for people desiring EXTRA WEEKLY INCOME. Work WILL NOT CONFLICT WITH PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. No SELLING. No Schooling. No Red Tape.

These positions can be filled during the spare hours (during day or evening) of mechanics, tradesmen, clerks, professional men and business men. Full time positions can be arranged for those desiring permanent work. ABSOLUTELY NO EXPERIENCE REQUIRED. FINANCIAL CO-OPERATION GIVEN from the start. You should earn NOT LESS than $14 to PER WEEK from the moment your name is placed upon the company's rolls. Of the scores of happy workers recently employed, very few earn less than $30 per week and are working but one hour per day. Positions (part time or permanent) are EXTREMELY SIMPLE in pleasant surroundings and most congenial atmosphere.

Do not confuse this ad with another of similar wording, for YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING AND YOU CAN EARN FROM THE MOMENT YOU START.

This is REAL. This is GENUINE. Here is an opportunity to earn a REAL BANK ACCOUNT during your spare time. The work is extremely simple and can be done by anyone of ordinary intelligence and we will make you understand and know you can do the work before we ask you to start.

You must understand this is an unusual opportunity. Come and get the facts. We require white applicants over 25 years of age AND EVERYONE will be given utmost consideration.

This ad will appear until FRIDAY EVENING and none will be considered after 8:30 O'CLOCK Friday evening. Make up your mind NOW to answer on time. NO APPLICANTS RECEIVED AT ANY OTHER HOUR.

APPLY FRIDAY EVENING, OCT. 7, at 8:30 O'CLOCK, SUITE 601 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING, SEVENTH AVENUE AND SMITHFIELD STREET.

Notice! Remember this is an entirely new department and here is your opportunity to get a position in it. Scores of applicants have been given employment during the evenings or after business hours and even the office boy earns $25 per week. Many of our employees who are employed otherwise during the daytime have bought new cars and have opened new bank accounts as a result of this wonderful extra income opportunity. You can answer other ads every day of the week but remember, you can only answer this ad Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

YOU SIMPLY CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT knowing how and why means EXTRA MONEY. Now if you really desire to open a REAL BANK ACCOUNT, DON'T MISS THIS. Do not answer this ad unless you are really sincere and anxious to earn an extra income. We will receive no applicants after 8:30 o'clock Friday evening, so make up your mind in answer on time, REGARDLESS OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. EVERYONE WILL BE GIVEN FULLEST CONSIDERATION AT ABOVE TIME, AND REMEMBER THE PLACE.

WANTED

LADIES, AMBITIOUS, Work Evenings or Spare Time.

A NEW PROJECT

makes it possible for this amazing opportunity and forces us to open several new departments, in which we will be able to use hundreds of employees. Average earnings $40 per week minimum. This is your spare time extra pay check. You are eligible whether employed or unemployed if white and over 25 years of age.

Read every word carefully—investigate. You cannot afford to pass up the greatest opportunity in Pittsburgh today. The work is extremely simple and will not conflict with your present employment and you will not be asked to sell anything. This is your opportunity. Positively no experience required. Many people in Pittsburgh today are earning a greater remuneration in their spare hours than they do at their regular occupation. We have a systematized method of placing you in a position to EARN EXTRA MONEY WITHOUT ASKING YOU TO SELL. We do not ask you for more than ONE HOUR of your spare time each day. You will understand the work before we ask you to start. You can do this work because it is simple, yet pleasant, congenial and dignified. These positions can be filled by housewives, teachers, nurses, business ladies, and office workers DURING THE EVENING AFTER BUSINESS HOURS. This is genuine, and you are not just taking a chance. We are offering you a real OPPORTUNITY. You simply cannot afford to pass up a real money making opportunity. WE DO NOT ASK YOU TO SELL, and you can earn immediately a substantial extra pay check for your spare time. Stop wearing out shoe leather and chasing "Rainbows." YOU SHOULD EARN $40 PER WEEK MINIMUM. Those who seriously desire to better themselves financially and otherwise can get almost any kind of work at any time, but we can assure you that you cannot expect an opportunity like this to be offered for a very long time. COME AND LEARN MORE ABOUT THIS WORK. We have a bonus plan that will mean independence to real workers, which means a wonderful vacation, a new car, or a real bank account. This plan is for those women who are ambitious and have the will power and the determination to desire to get somewhere in this world. COME AND LEARN HOW TO MAKE EXTRA MONEY. You will not need to answer any other ads to increase your earning power. There are many whom you will meet at our offices who answered an ad similar to this some few years ago, who are now independent. We have women who have earned in their spare hours an average of $50 per week. MAKE UP YOUR MIND TO ANSWER. Be prompt. This ad will appear until Friday evening only, Oct. 7. We want only earnest and sincere workers. No one will be considered after Friday evening.

APPLY FRIDAY EVENING, OCT. 7, AT 8:30 P. M. SHARP, ROOM 601 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BLDG., SEVENTH AND SMITHFIELD ST.

Remember, the new departments which we are forced to open have been brought about by the amazing facts and the tremendous demands of this stupendous project. Many of our new employees will earn from $40 to $50 per week. You simply cannot afford to miss this real genuine opportunity. COME AND SECURE THE FACTS. You will be happy because you will not need to answer any other ads. If you are sincere and desire to have a real bank account, the luxuries that should be yours, or a new car, then COME AND EARN YOUR SPARE TIME EXTRA PAY CHECK.

(Many of our present employees who have advanced and were glad otherwise during the day are driving new cars and have bank accounts. Their families are happy and they have educated themselves through this wonderful system which we have developed).

The time to apply is 8:30 o'clock Friday evening only, if you are really sincere and anxious to earn an extra weekly income during your spare time. We will receive no applicants after 8:30 o'clock Friday evening. Make up your mind now to answer. No evening Friday evening only—8:30 o'clock.

FULLEST CONSIDERATION WILL BE GIVEN ALL AT THIS TIME REGARDLESS OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. WE WILL RECEIVE NO APPLICANTS AFTER 8:30 P. M. FRIDAY, OCT. 7. APPLY IN PERSON FRIDAY EVENING, AT 8:30 P. M. SHARP, 601 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BLDG.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — A Clue to Drury's Absence

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF MR. AND MRS. DRURY DLANE, AND LOUIE WEENER THE ONLY MAN WHO KNOWS HOW TO MAKE RUBBER FENDERS, BROUGHT THE COLONEL TO HIS OFFICE TODAY PREPARED TO WORRY ABOUT AN AMOUNT OF TROUBLE THAT HE HAS APPARENTLY UNDERESTIMATED.
MY WORD! I'VE HUNTED UP HILL AND DOWN DALE FOR THE BOOKS OF THIS CONCERN, I WONDER WHAT DRURY DID WITH THEM? HE WAS LOOKING OVER THEM WHEN I WENT HOME THE OTHER EVENING. WELL...
AHEM! AH NEIGHBOR, ARE YOU MR. BUNGLE?
AHEM! I'M VERY BUSY RIGHT NOW FRIEND.
SO AM I! I'M ONE OF YOUR STOCKHOLDERS. AND I'D LIKE TO GET BACK MY MONEY PER THE AGREEMENT I HAD WITH THIS BABY D'LANE. HERE'S THE STOCK CERTIFICATE. I WANT—
AHEM! THIS IS A BIT SUDDEN FRIEND. IF YOU'LL STEP BACK IN AN HOUR OR SO I'LL—
OH HO! THE SAME OLD STUFF, EH? YOU AND THIS D'LANE ARE JUST ONE BIG ALIBI FAMILY EH? WELL, I WANT MY $300 RIGHT NOW! DO I GET IT? ONE, TWO—

ELLA CINDERS — Greetings, Little Comrade

The mystery man—as mysterious as a bottled bargain—carried Ella and Blackie to an old house in the down-town section of New York.....
IT LOOKS LIKE WE'VE LANDED IN THE LAP OF LUXURY—BUT WE'VE SAT THERE BEFORE—AND SKIDDED!
YES, BUT EVERY TIME WE FALL, WE BOUNCE UP AGAIN!
GREETINGS COMRADE! I AM THE LEFT POINT OF THE GRAND TRIANGLE, AND ON BEHALF OF OUR ORDER, I SALUTE YOU!
GLAD TO MEET YOU, LEFTY!
YOUR FAME IT HAVE PRECEDE YOU, COMRADE—BIG THINGS WE ARE EXPECT OF YOU! WE HOPE YOU WILL BE SUCH GLORIOUS HEROINE IN AMERICA AS IN EUROPE!
NOW WHAT—WHAT DO THEY EXPECT ME TO DO—AND WHY AND WHEN AND WHERE?? IF I GET THE CHANCE I'LL DO A NON-STOP NOSE-DIVE RIGHT OUT OF THIS PLACE!
These people think Ella is Olga Smurkovitch—the air is as heavy with plots and plans as a cupboard with pots and pans. Wonder what they want Ella to do???

THE NEBBS — Just Nothing at All

OH MR FLINT, I WANT TO CONGRATULATE YOU- NO ONE ELSE WOULD HAVE THOUGHT OF PUTTING THE VALUABLES UNDER THE SAFE - YOU HAVE A WONDERFUL MIND.
I MADE NO MISTAKE WHEN I HIRED MR FLINT. I CAN PICK OUT A MAN WITH AN ALERT MIND - IT TAKES A MAN WITH INTELLIGENCE TO RECOGNIZE ABILITY.
OH THAT MR FLINT IS SMART AND BRAVE- HE CAN BE A HERO NOW AND MAYBE HE CAN GET IN THE MOVIES.
WHAT DID HE DO? JUST LAID STILL WHILE THEY WRAPPED HIM UP AND CHANCES ARE THE JEWEL PACKAGE FELL OUT IN THE EXCITEMENT - THEY NEVER WOULDA TIED ME UP. I'D BUSTED 'EM IN THE NOSE AND CARRIED 'EM TO THE POLICE STATION.
YOU WOULDN'T BE FOOLISH ENOUGH TO HIT PEOPLE WHEN THEY HAD PISTOLS RIGHT UP TO YOUR HEAD? MAX, DON'T NEVER DO IT - YOU'LL GET KILLED.
NO PISTOLS DON'T SCARE ME WHEN MY MADNESS IS UP. THEY AIN'T NOBODY GOING TO TIE ME UP - I'M A HUMAN BEING - I AIN'T NO PACKAGE.

BUGS BAER Says

WILCY MOORE won another stepfather victory yesterday. Wiley is one of those pitchers who is like a man marrying a widow with two children. He usually inherits a game when a pitcher has been bulldozed out of the box, leaving a couple of runners on base.

Yesterday was no exception. Waite Hoyt had been heaving and tossing all afternoon and giving the New York rooters more scares than a reward with a new police whistle. Waite was finally extradited in the eighth with two Pirates on base and nobody out.

ARTHUR "BUG" BAER

Moore managed to consolidate the game while Hoyt was mixing up the hot and cold water in the showers. Waite gets credit for the win, but he should certainly give Wiley a diploma or something.

Pittsburgh lost the game in the third when the team decided to be just nine men in uniform. They got over this relapse but couldn't get over being invalids. The Yanks scored three runs on one hit, a couple of lateral kicks and a few pop flys to the umpires.

Even then the Pirates came within a whisker of winning the business. A few more breaks and they could have copped. Paul Waner operated on schedule and got his daily three hits. But Paul gave the Yanks their first run when he went after Gehrig's pop in the first. He ran on his feet and then ran on his stomach and Gehrig's single was turned into one of those official triples that look nice on paper but are not sincere. Babe Ruth also got three safe raps, each one a single, and every one as hot as pepper on the tree.

It was a flat kind of a game with no especial stars. The break came in the third inning when the Pirates went out to hang up a new non-stop flight record. Two errors, two bases on balls and a thin single gave the Yanks their three runs and a lot of unearned glory.

Barney Dreyfuss outwitted Judge Landis by building bleachers outside the left and right field fences. Barney jammed five thousand people into these temporary stands and these fans got only a temporary view of the game. Barney will not have to share this extra dough with anybody as he can claim that the extra five thousand spectators did not come through the turnstiles. They cannot be figured as paid admissions as they were not admitted.

A prophet is without honor in his own country, which means that a bum guesser can guess right and still be a bum. We predicted that the opening pitchers would not finish the game. Both Hoyt and Kremer cancelled their reservations before the full nine innings. Hoyt managed to outlast Kremer but only because he had tied his shoe laces very tightly.

Earl Smith is still the same old battling catcher. Earl was hoping for some close plays at the plate so that he could break some legs and eat the marrow.

Both the Yanks and Pirates played as if they were trying to lose a close victory.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

ON "KISSING ON THE DOORSTEP"

Should a HUSBAND kiss
His WIFE every MORNING
Before he goes to Business, when
She shows no DESIRE
Whatever
To be KISSED?
Probably it is just
As WELL. If he DOES
It, she does not THINK about it, but Should he FAIL she might Then be forced to THINK about him once or Twice during the DAY.

Besides, no man should Expect a WOMAN to Show real DESIRE for his
KISSES at eight-thirty
In the morning, on the DOORSTEP. That would just
Be SILLY on her part.
Loving KISSES belong to
The EVENING. For,
It seems, MOST MEN
Kiss their wives in the MORNING with as much
Enthusiasm as they PUNCH
The time clock. And
For the SAME REASON.

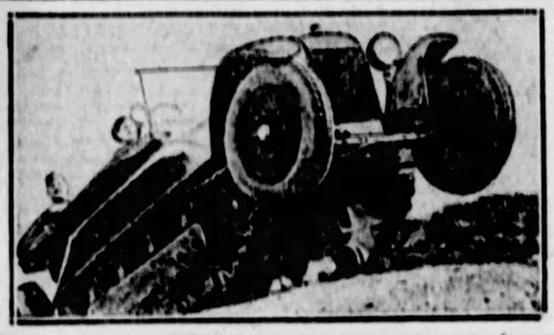
The New War Horse

A Horse With Eight Gaits.



BRITAIN'S COMBINATION MOTOR-CATERPILLAR MACHINE

The next war will be a NEW war, different from all that men have known. It will be fought and won IN THE AIR. The battleships that roam the sea and have dominion over the earth will be hidden away useless. Submarines will strike at commerce and make it practically impossible.

And all the heavens will be thick with flying machines, great "bombers" dropping high explosives and poison gas, while rapid pursuit planes, going five miles a minute and faster, attack each other and the bombing planes.

What fighting is done on land will be of a new kind. In this picture you see the new "war horse" built in Britain to take the place of the old-fashioned war horse, carrying one man and a sabre, that used to gallop over troops.

This combination caterpillar tractor and automobile was recently demonstrated by the British War Office at Aldershot, and distinguished visitors from the British colonies were taken to ride in it. It opened their eyes.

Others like it are now being constructed to carry machine guns and light cannon. The remarkable thing about it is that on smooth ground it is used as a high-speed automobile, the tractor wheels can be made to leave the road, and in thirty seconds it can be changed to run as a caterpillar tractor over very rough ground, as you see here, through swamps, across ditches.

Imagine modern artillery or cavalry trying to stop a long line of these machines, those on the smooth ground going sixty miles an hour, their machine guns spitting, those on the rough ground going more slowly on caterpillar tracks, relentlessly ploughing down opposition.

The next war will be a new war and a terrible war. Europe knows it and is preparing for it.

Here we are saving up money, intent on paying off bonds, more interested in prosperity than in the dangers that menace prosperity.

An individual like Lindbergh can fly across the ocean entirely alone. Others will one day fly in this direction; and not on a peaceful errand.

If you happen to know the names of your Congressman and your two Senators—many Americans don't—you might write those three gentlemen to think about the importance of flying machines.

Not More Investigation But More Action On Oil Needed

The thing that the country does not need is more investigation of the problem of oil conservation. This is what is proposed by Senator Oddie, of Nevada, who announces in Washington that he is going to put a bill in Congress providing funds for the Geological Survey and the Bureau of Mines to obtain all the technical and economic data bearing on the oil problem.

Senator Oddie apparently has forgotten that we have a Federal Oil Conservation Board. President Coolidge appointed it on December 19, 1924, nearly three years ago. The President's board includes Secretary of War Davis, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of the Interior Work.

This board has had at its disposal the expert knowledge of the Geological Survey, the Bureau of Mines and the Department of Commerce. They have also had the hearty co-operation of the oil industry in getting all the facts that bear upon the situation. The essential facts were published in the report of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, made to the President on September 26, 1926.

The President's board found that our known reserves of oil from producing and proven fields then amounted to about 4,500 million barrels, a six-year supply. The board reported ominous condition of waste in the present methods of producing, waste of gas pressure which ought to be preserved in order to lift the oil cheaply to the surface, and waste due to failure to get the maximum amount of oil from the sands.

The President in his letter appointing the board called attention to our military and naval dependence upon oil supplies in time of stress and the necessity of making our limited supplies last as long as possible.

The Federal board, both in this 1926 report and in subsequent statements, has called attention to the fact that if we utilized the knowledge we already possess, we should be getting about twice as much oil out of a given pool as we now extract before it runs dry.

Secretary Work has stated that, due to our wasteful methods of competitive production, we are now extracting a million barrels of oil daily in excess of our needs and getting rid of this surplus by selling it in competition with cheap coal. The truth is that the nation's resources are being squandered and its future defence imperiled by the mad, cutthroat competition of producers who have proven that they do not know how to restrain themselves, and hence ought to be restrained by law.

What sense is there in delaying legislation until further long-winded investigations by government bureaus which can prove nothing that we do not already know?

Had He Stolen a Loaf—

He Wouldn't Have Got Off So Easily.

The Mayor of Indianapolis was convicted of accepting bribes, in return for which he agreed to appoint three members of the city administration.

What do you think happened to that Mayor of Indianapolis? Had he stolen a loaf of bread, or a pair of shoes, he would have gone to jail for six months or more, perhaps a year.

The Mayor of Indianapolis was not hungry, his children did not lack shoes, when he took thousands of bribe money.

And THIS happens to him: He goes to jail for thirty days, pays one thousand dollars fine, a small part of the bribe money.

Crime will surely make you unhappy, and it may send you to hell hereafter, so avoid it. But if you MUST be a criminal, don't steal a loaf of bread or a pair of shoes—that's the most foolish thing you can do in America. Steal a pair of shoes, go to [illegible] Europe.

STILL AT LARGE

Garrett P Serviss Says:

Health, Business and Humidity

"On some hot days I suffer terribly; on other days equally hot I do not suffer. The weatherman says it is the humidity. Will you kindly explain what he means by humidity?—J. F. G."

HUMIDITY describes the state of the atmosphere with reference to the amount of water vapor that it contains.

There is a limit to the amount of water vapor that the air can contain, but this limit is variable, changing with the temperature. As the temperature rises the capacity of the air to hold water vapor increases. It is seldom, however, that the air contains so much as two per cent of its weight in water vapor.

When the air in any locality, and at any temperature, is charged to its full capacity with water vapor, it is said to be saturated. Then, if the temperature rises, the state of saturation ceases, because the capacity to hold water vapor grows with the temperature. But if the temperature of saturated air falls, the vapor capacity also decreases, and the water vapor already in the air condenses, forming mist or cloud, which may produce rain if the drops of water become large enough to fall under the control of gravity. The temperature at which the moisture begins to condense is called the dew point. The origin of this term is the fact that dew forms on the grass at night when the temperature sinks so far that the water vapor accumulated in the air condenses into minute drops.

The weather people speak of two forms, or, rather, measures of humidity, namely, "absolute humidity" and "relative humidity." Absolute humidity means the actual amount of water vapor in the air. Relative humidity means the ratio of the actual amount of humidity found in the air at any moment to the maximum amount that the air could hold at the same temperature. When the actual amount coincides with the greatest possible amount—at the actual temperature—the state of saturation is reached, or the relative humidity is said to be 100 per cent.

Now, it is the relative humidity and not the absolute that has the power of making people comfortable or uncomfortable. And, since the relative humidity depends upon the variations of temperature, its amount frequently changes in the course of the day, as does people's temper.

The cause of the discomfort produced by a state of high relative humidity is that when the air is at or near the saturation point, so that it can take up no more moisture, the natural evaporation from the body is impeded, and the moisture collects on the skin. All drying processes are interrupted by a high degree of relative humidity.

Bluffers

YOUR quick perception makes you superficial, but you do not like to have anyone tell you that you are shallow.

You have been able to "get by" with so little effort you have encouraged yourself in slipshod methods.

The bluffer is always caught with his deficiencies looming large in the end.

Someone always comes along and shows the bluffer up eventually.

Disaster due to bluff hurts the bluffer the worst.

Then why pretend to be what you are not?

If you cannot deliver the goods and you seek to make the world believe that you can, you are injuring yourself more than anyone.

You pay the price for your inefficiency.

If you can learn so quickly, if you are keen, why not be thorough also and make a regular winner?

There are diggers that always plod, but they are to be preferred to the quick thinker who bluffs but avoids intensive physical or mental effort.

THOUGHTS OF THE GREAT—

The wisdom of the wise and the experience of the ages may be preserved by the quotation.—Isaac Disraeli.

Of all superstitions is not the most dangerous that of hating your neighbor for his opinions? —Voltaire.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—It may be a natural reaction from the mammoth movie with glittering facades and cathedral clap-trap, but anyway New York is going in for the thimble movie. They are miniature places with benches and a piano or foot organ.

Most of them present short reels a little bilious and slightly highbrow, with perhaps an old cross-eyed comedy or a Sennett slap-stick as a relief from the gloom. The aim is to be arty in the typical Greenwich Village winds or tie manner.

One of the pocket playhouses is on lower Fifth avenue, and another is on Fifty-seventh street. They present cinemas featuring the spiritual urge or some tragic climax with little hope of financial success. But, oddly enough, all are reported prospering.

They get much of the midtown overflow and offer an escape from the wearisome process of standing in line or being roped off in the back of the house. For, despite the enormous new flicker palaces, the movies have not kept pace with their growing audiences.

It is only Monday afternoon and night the movie patron stands half a show of getting an immediate seat. Saturday and Sunday the movies become well night impossible to enter. And there is an increasing number who want to see only the movies and not the extravagant ballets and vaudeville.

For a time the mixture of cinema with high-class vaudeville seemed likely to shunt the latter into a total eclipse, but lately there has been a renewed interest in what is known as straight vaudeville and straight movies and it seems highly probable the public wants either one or the other undiluted.

There are also many movie houses known as "revival houses" which are highly prosperous. They do not present new picture releases, but show favorites of other seasons.

An agency has been established on Forty-second street to make traveling well night perfect as well as simply grand. It is only for people of wealth who make sudden trips and do not care a hang for expenses. You merely phone and tell where you are going and on what day you wish to depart. They secure best accommodations, send for your baggage and place it in your cabin or drawing room. They attend to reservations in best hotels at your destination, see that your luggage is taken care of as well as other details. Among which is the placing in your traveling quarters of the latest editions of newspapers, magazines and a selection of latest novels. They charge 5 per cent of the entire bill.

The most embarrassing predicament of the week is reported from a film executive who has a shower bath attached to his office. He remained late the other evening, divested himself of clothes, placed them neatly on a chair and went into the shower. A cleaning woman, seeing the pile of clothes, took them to her locker, put them under lock and key and departed. The executive refreshed himself and looked for his clothes. He telephoned his home but his wife and servants were out for the evening. It was past midnight when other clothes were brought so he could go on his way.

And almost nightly some one is left behind under lock and key in a store or shop. Women as a rule grow hysterical and often have to be rescued by firemen who break through transoms, but the man merely stands at the front door looking silly while someone is dispatched for a key.

Those left behind in stores are usually those who are in the telephone booths when closing time arrives.

Knee Pants

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Larsen, a Paris designer, has decreed knee pants for evening wear, and Jean d'Ahetze puts them on and defies fashion.

Whether knee pants will ever come in vogue again is a question, but they have everything in their favor.

They have crept in to some extent among golfers who wear plus fours, and it is said that they wear knee pants at certain courts.

There is a legend to the effect that along about 1852 a certain King of England having a deformed leg, unfurled his trousers to the shoe tops and immediately the whole world imitated him. We have to keep up with London, don't you know!

Long pants came into vogue, not from a sense of modesty against displaying the calf, but there is a strong suspicion that they were invented by the ashamed to hide crooked legs and knobbed knees.

Every young man knows that the article of his apparel that causes him the most concern is his pantaloons. It is hard to keep the crease in them just right. It is expensive to send them every week to the tailor and have them pressed and it is a bother to put them in between the mattresses when you go to bed.

The knee is the natural bending place of the leg, and knee trousers do not get baggy.

And then there is tradition. Our forefathers, G. Washington and others, wore the abbreviated nether garments, and if we are to follow in their footsteps in avoiding entangling alliances with other nations, why shouldn't we follow their knee style, so to speak, and wear short trousers?

Besides this, there is the matter of comfort and convenience. It surely is more comfortable to wear knee trousers than to wear them long.

We might also speak of their artistic appearance. Long nether garments are the despair of artists. It is hard to make a statue of a hero and have his legs look like cannons. There is a chance to give much more individuality to a personage if you represent him as clothed in knee trousers.

There is only one thing in the way of reverting to knee pants and that is that it is common sense. We have noticed when there is a clash between tradition and common sense, or custom and common sense, old C. S. gets the worst of it.

We shall probably continue wearing long trousers, together with using the antiquated calendar and the pounds, shilling and pence and the pounds and ounces to which we are accustomed.

Sun-Dials

THE sun-dials in old gardens, how quaint they are, how dear! how brave the record which they keep, where skies are always clear! No clouds seem worth recording upon the sun-dial's face, however dark the tempests lower, their fury leaves no trace. And so with those blest natures, so glad, so free from doubt, that never count the passing hours until the sun shines out. Oh! care may cross their pathway at pain may dog their trail, and the may sometimes join the ranks o those who try, yet fail; but ah! how soon forgotten their troubles, every one; the only memories they keep are those of joy and sun. Like sundials in old gardens, these happy ones we know who treasure all the shining hours and let the storm clouds go.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

EDISON had established a chemical plant at Silver Lake, New Jersey, a few miles from the Orange laboratory. Here his experiments with the various chemical forms of nickel and iron were made. Tests were made to determine the best combination for his storage battery. A daily record of progress was made.

THIS experimenting and testing stretched over a period of many years. At last Edison decided that it was time to begin manufacture of his new storage battery. He built a special factory at Glen Ridge, New Jersey. Using the batteries for power, tests were made over the roughest roads. Still Edison was not entirely satisfied.

AFTER thousands of cells had been sold and were giving satisfactory service, here and there a defective cell would show up. Edison went right after the problem. He was not satisfied that his battery was a complete success. True to his directness of action, he shut down the factory and started experimenting again.

ANOTHER series of heart-breaking experiments was started and lasted over five years, heart-breaking for all but Edison. His endurance and patience are almost unlimited. Now he had perfected a new idea and process which one of his assistants said was a "finer battery than we had ever expected."
